MAN HURT IN RUNAWAY DIES AT HOSPITAL

William K. Couillard, 67, of 121 Willie street, died at St. John's hospital early today as result of injuries sustained when thrown from a wagon in Prescott street early in the evening of July 30. One of the wagon wheels ran over his body, badly crushing his chest and fracturing one leg. Although he lived for a week, little hope was held out for his recovery and his name never was taken from the dangerous list.

The accident occurred when Couillard's pair of horses hitched to a heavy wagon became unmanageable and ran away. When the wagon struck an electric car he was thrown from the driver's seat underneath the wheels.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Couillard, two step granddaughters and several nieces and nephews.

The body was removed from the hospital to the rooms of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake in Market street.

ONE KILLED IN CRASH

Operator of One-Man Trolley

Fatally Injured and Five Hurt in Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Motorman Fred Potter of the Boston Elevated was fatally injured and five of his passengers seriously hurt, when his inbound one-man car, sweeping down grade, telescoped another one-man car that had stopped to take on passengers at Hyde Park avenue and Southborough road, Roslindale, late yesterday afternoon. Without regaining consciousness, Potter died at 8:15 last night at the city hospital.

Scores of passengers, bound for the Forest Hills elevated station, screamed helplessly as the 63-year-old operator dropped in the vestibule, prostrated either by the heat or heart failure, just before his car raced into the rear end of the other.

Jammed Under Wreckage

With a terrific crash the two cars deadlocked, hurling passengers from their seats under a shower of flying glass and debris. The veteran operator was tossed flat on his back, his lower body jammed in the wreckage of the two cars. It was fully 25 minutes before he was extricated from the mass of twisted iron, shattered glass and kindling wood.

The front end of his car was crushed in as far as the coin box. The rear end of the first car was mushroomed to the long seats. But it was Potter's car that bore the brunt of the collision. Practically the entire front vestibule, including the doors and the steps, was demolished. The controller was pitched back into the aisle.

When the heavy wreckage was lifted from the motorman his right lower leg was missing. It was amputated at the hip at the City hospital, to which he was taken in the ambulance of the West Roxbury police.

At the hospital Dr. Leland Taylor also found that Potter's left leg had been fractured in several places. Besides he had received internal injuries, multiple contusions and a lacerated scalp. Surgeons immediately placed his name on the danger list and summoned his wife, Mrs. Fred Potter of 77 Capen street, Milton. He died not long after she arrived at his bedside.

While a corps of policemen were removing the wreckage from the motorman's mangled legs, Thomas Kelly of Jamaica Plain, operator of the first car, hustled through the frightened passengers, assisting the women and children and giving first aid to the injured. To him was given praise for restoring order.

Fleets of motors pulled up alongside to take the injured to hospitals. Their operators got out their accident kits and administered first aid to the stricken passengers.

John Leane, a 50-year-old passenger, received severe injuries to his back. He was taken to the Forest Hills hospital, where he was put to bed for further treatment. Notice of his injuries was sent to his family at 678 Parker street, Roxbury.

Mrs. Helen Crowley, 26, of 16 Garden street, Roslindale, was also raced to the Forest Hills hospital by a passing automobile. There she was treated for abrasions of the face. Her checks were cut by flying glass and splinters. After treatment she was taken to her home.

Broken glass pierced the scalp of Henry H. Monahan, a 72-year-old man employed as a foreman by the Elevated, who was riding on the rear car. His right hand was bruised, but after being treated at the Forest Hills hospital he was taken to his home at 17 Park street, Dorchester.

Edward Joyce, 54, received a severe gash in his head when struck by a big piece of glass. His wound was dressed and then he was removed to his home at 14 Marion street, Dorchester.

Several other passengers suffered minor injuries. Some walked away after they had been attended by motorists, generous with their supply of iodine and adhesive tape.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre, "Baby" S. S. Stratton's new novel of American life, with an all east of favorites and "George Washington, Jr." an adaptation of George M. Cohan's famous play with Wesley Barry in the leading role.

For the latter half of the week, Thursdays, Friday and Saturday, Marcelline Peterson has arranged another of his typically excellent Merrimack Square programs. Underlined as features are "Our Hospitality," starring Buster Keaton and Natalie Talmadge, an spectacular full-length comedy of the Konstantin four-act 100 year old comedy and "The Love Pirate," with Carroll Myers, a fascinating story of romance, thrills, adventure, intrigue and suspense. In addition there will also be shown a Sonnet comedy, "Nip and Tuck," the latest international hit. And don't forget that it is cool and comfortable in the Merrimack Square, no matter how warm it is outside the world.

Keaton's new feature comedy, "Our Hospitality," is the second under his new alliance with Metro. It is built on his humoristic side, American life in the early 1800's. A plot which follows a story and a Kentucky girl, furnishing the romance and drama, with Buster playing a fashionable youth of the period days.

Buster makes screen love for the first time to Miss Natalie Talmadge, who is the star of the show. Other members of the family appearing are Baby Joe (Buster II) and Buster's father, Joseph Keaton. Non-family players include Joe Roberts, Kitty Bradbury, Jean Dumas, Ralph Bushman, Craig Wood, and others.

Carroll Myers, according to reports from other cities, has added one more remarkable characterization, to the many already to her credit, as a cabaret performer in "The Love Pirate," the second feature. In the earlier scenes she appears admirably, it is said, the happy, carefree companion of a girl of this type, while later, when jealousy comes into her life, she invests the part with deftly conceived touches that carry her from the thought of love and happiness to that of hate and revenge.

HALTO THEATRE

A story with more action, thrills and daring by the stars, than "The Elephant Boy," the Fox special which will be seen at Halo's Halto the latter half of the week, starting Thursday, Aug. 10.

CUGNOVO—The funeral of George H. Cugnovo took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from his home, 33 White Street and was attended by Rev. Mr. Powers and his wife. The cortego proceeded to St. Rose of Lima church where at 10 o'clock a solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Cornelius J. Cotter, assisted by Rev. Joseph A. Curto as deacon and Rev. John J. Powers as sub-deacon. The choir rendered the "Sanctus" chant, the solo in the mass being substituted by Miss Mary McPartland and Mr. Thomas Vaughan, Miss Catherine Wholey president of the organ. third psychiatrist, will take the stand for the defense today. Several other alienists will be used by the defense to a number of other witnesses, among them members of the boy's family. It was indicated.

Loeb is a victim of moral insanity and Leopold of abnormal and morbid affection, according to a report of Dr. Sanger Brown, defense alienist, made public today.

Because of some defects in his nervous system, mainly in his brain, Loeb has been unable to perceive, feel and respond to the various obligations of moral and social life as does a normal individual of his age, Dr. Brown said. Leopold's affection for Loeb was so strong that he was impelled to conform to his wishes and become a participant in his project, the alienist asserted.

Defendants Not to Testify

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Neither Nathan Leopold, Jr., nor Richard Loeb, confessed slaves of Robert Franks, will testify in the effort of the defense to show mitigating evidence to evade the death penalty. This was made clear today by Clarence S. Darrow, chief of defense counsel.

Although the defense lot it be known that 10 or 12 witnesses would follow the alienists on the stand, including some students from the University of Michigan, where both youths formerly were students, and that surprise testimony is expected as to the defendants, Mr. Darrow said:

"One thing I will say definitely, the defendants will not testify. Neither will any member of the family testify to show any peculiarities, although they be used to identify an exhibit or two."

Introduced this week to establish the boundary commission, but it will not be put down for the second reading until after the recess. If the position of Mr. Cosgrave (head of the Free State government), becomes desperate, parliament will be called together at Westminster earlier than was intended with a view to passing the bill. Meanwhile, negotiations will be continued with the northern government and strong efforts made to induce it to appoint a commissioner.

"Mr. Thomas went so far as to express confidence that those efforts would be successful, and Mr. Cosgrave agreed to accept postponement on those conditions. The conference thus ended in agreement."

To Summon Parliament

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Pressure is being brought on the International conference by Dr. Rudolph Breitfeld, leader of the German socialists, and the French socialists who are now in London, to effect immediate military evacuation of the Ruhr. The proponents of immediate evacuation indicate that the German government is likely to fall if its delegations return to Berlin without a promise that the Ruhr and other occupied districts will be immediately freed of foreign troops.

This question, although outside the agenda of the conference, is for the moment transcending all others. It is being stressed by the German delegates who represent a minority government whose existence they insist would be seriously threatened if the military evacuation is not achieved.

The French socialists are supporting the position taken by their German colleagues and are intimating that the French domestic political situation also demands compliance with the German request.

Today a bill providing for the settlement of the question along the lines previously indicated by government spokesmen. The second reading of the bill will be proceeded with and the bill pressed forward when parliament meets in September, he added.

WHEN DARROW PLEADED FOR MERCY

Here is Clarence F. Darrow, chief counsel for Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, pleading with Chief Justice John R. Caverly for mercy for the defendants. This is a striking closeup of both Darrow and Judge Caverly. The judge sits back, resting his head on his left hand, listening intently. On his desk an electric fan is humming away. But even then, the little courtroom is hot and stuffy. Straw hats of attorneys and court attaches are seen hanging on the wall near the bench.

BY THE N.E.A. PLAY JURY
NEW YORK, August 5—There being no new plays to report this week, the jurors deployed in skirmish formation to scout along Broadway and its byways to learn what dramatic forces are advancing on us for the fall stage.

Three companies will present "Seventh Heaven" on tour after its prolonged success in New York. Helen

HELEN MENKEN

Menken will continue with the first company and Ann Forrest will head the cast of the second company.

John Golden is observed studying maps for his campaign. We learn that he will operate in Boston this winter and that he will present the more successful of his plays in London, Canada and far-off Australia. Also he is planning to enter motion picture production.

Glen Hunter is reading the part of Orson Benton Gude for "O. B. Gude," a new comedy by Winchell Smith, collaborator in most of the Golden successes. Smith and George Abbott have written another new play called "The Friend."

Frank Craven, Broadway's Jack-of-all-trades and specialist in them all, announced that he would quit acting to devote all his time to writing and directing. He went to Milwaukee to play the title role in "The Full Guy" for two weeks so that he would be better qualified to direct the play. Now he has decided to play the role for eight weeks on Broadway. Beatrice Noyes will have the leading feminine role.

Craven will direct "Plays," a comedy by Anne Morrison and Patterson McNutt. Lydia Westman and Wallace Ford, now to Broadway, will head the cast.

"Fool's Hill," Craven's old play, recently opened in Milwaukee and will move to New York as soon as the humidity recedes.

"The Miracle" will reopen in September and Lady Diana Manners has sent word that she will return to play the role of the Madonna.

Guy Bolton's comedy, "Wages for Wives" with Alma Tell in a principal part, has opened at Atlantic City and is headed for Chicago.

First of the speak plays will be "The Haunted House," by Owen Davis, author of "The Nervous Wreck." It will be followed by "The Green Beetle," produced by Kilbourne Gordon, who was responsible for "The Cat and the Canary."

A troupe of fast-flying, high-stepping negroes will be seen in "Chocolate Dandies," sponsored by the same men responsible for "Shuffle Along."

Another "most beautiful woman in Paris" has been found. She is Amazur, who has arrived to appear in the next edition of the Greenwich Village Folies. She is a grand operetta artist.

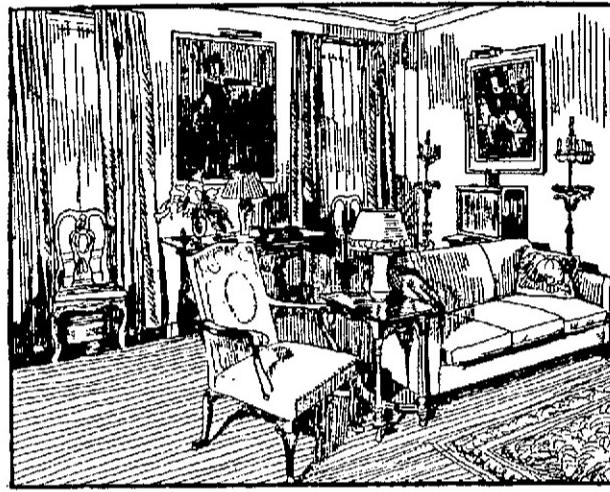

Queenie Smith and Jack Donahue will be featured in "Be Yourself," Kaufman and Connally's new musical comedy. G. T. Huntley, English comedian, will also be in the cast. Carl Lindberg is singing the dancing numbers.

C. P. Greene announces that the Shuberts are at work on the twelfth "Passing Show," with J. J. Shubert personally supervising the production. A chorus of 100 has been selected and Sigmund Romberg and Jean Schwartz are writing the music.

Stewart and French, producers of "Most the Wife" and "The Show-Off," announce a comedy drama by George Kelly, called "Reflected Glory." Another play will be an English novel, a comedy of society, with the names laid in Italy. The third play is a farce, which will appear in November.

Three companies of "Meet the Wife" will take to the road in the fall. The

Background Should Be of Dark, Simple Tone

WALLS, FLOOR AND CEILING IN THIS ROOM ARE OF THE SAME TONE AND UNOBTRUSIVE ENOUGH TO ALLOW THE REST OF THE ROOM TO STAND OUT.

Before a room is furnished and decorated, the background must be considered.

A background is the field on which the more important and attractive details of a picture—or room—are carried out. For this purpose certain essential requirements must be considered.

The background must be unobtrusive. It must be and stay where it belongs—in back.

No part of it can divert from the rest with any marked difference. The wall, for instance, may be different from the floor in tone, but it should not show a great difference in color so as to verge on contrast rather than harmony.

The background must include not only the floor, walls and ceiling of a room, but the woodwork, and if there is a wide opening into any other room, the next room as well. A sudden change in color from one room to another, especially with a wide opening between them is just as bad as a sudden change from floor to wall.

For proper decoration and attractiveness of the rest of the room, the background should be of a dark, simple tone, without frills or designs of any kind.

And, most important of all, the background must be less intense in color than objects that are to be shown against it. The best class of color for a background is of the warm variety. Yellow or orange tone is much better for background than green or blue. Gray is the ideal background, and next to it is a soft peach tone, for wall and ceiling, with a darker tan for the floor.

Yellow, door, wall and ceiling generally are different, although in tone only. If the background is to be gray, for instance, the floor is darkest, the wall medium and the lighting lightest gray. No one is light enough to distract attention from the pieces in the room.

The woodwork should be part of the background. It should best be of the same color and tone. But if different here, the trim should at least be of the same value in color as the rest of the background.

True, during the colonial period, the trim was white and displayed itself as part of the decorative scheme. But that is the peculiarity of the period and may be imitated only with sumptuousness by a deputy sheriff yesterday to appear before the governor and council at city hall this afternoon at a public hearing, which will extend through Thursday forenoon. They will be asked for whom they voted, in accordance with the results of the supreme court Justices last week, as a means of ascertaining how many of the votes cast in that ward were fraudulent, as charged, through stuffing of the ballot box. No elector is obliged to give such testimony, however. If he prefers to keep his choice a secret, he can do so, but will lose his vote. On this point, the Justices said:

"This method will permit the counting of ballots actually cast so far as they are proved, and to this extent will protect the innocent and thwart the machinations of the guilty." When the governor and council Saturday afternoon concluded the checking and recounting of questionable ballots in other parts of the state in accordance with opinions rendered by the Justices, Senator Farrington, who had been given a certificate showing a plurality of 320 on the face of official returns, had a plurality of 294.

This was then reduced to 42 by the action of the governor and council in throwing out the vote of St. Agatha in Arapostrophe county, which was 252 to 9 in his favor, because voting booths were not used as required by the primary law.

The totals at that time included the vote of ward 4, which was 718 for Farrington and 153 for Brewster, including the alleged fraudulent votes. Omitting the vote of ward 4, Senator Brewster comes down to that ward with a lead of 523 votes, David E. Montauk, his attorney pointed out yesterday in a statement in which he was quoted as saying that it would be practically impossible for Senator Farrington's friends in that ward to overcome this lead.

The governor and council will not investigate the fraud, which was alleged to have been committed in ward 4, where many ballots were known through an investigation, by Sheriff

Coolidge Cuts Speech

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Coolidge has decided to limit his speech accepting the republican nomination to discussion of a few major topics. To this end he is boiling down the first draft of his address, carefully prepared and touching many subjects after laughing and telling friends he just could not treat all things of interest in the United States in one speech.

Among the topics Mr. Coolidge is expected to emphasize in his address in its final form are the administration's record in foreign relations, government economy and tax reduction. The speech will be delivered at the formal notification exercises here on Aug. 14.

RECOUNT IN PORTLAND

Every Member of Ward 4 Summoned to Tell How They Voted in Primaries

PORLTAND, Me., Aug. 6.—The scene of activities of the governor and council in their efforts to determine who was nominated at the primaries on June 16 as the republican candidate for governor at the biennial election of September 8 shifts to this city today. The 573 persons who were checked as having voted in ward 4 for State Senators Frank C. Parrington of Augusta and Ralph C. Brewster of this city were served with summonses by a deputy sheriff yesterday to appear before the governor and council at city hall this afternoon at a public hearing, which will extend through Thursday forenoon.

They will be asked for whom they voted, in accordance with the results of the supreme court Justices last week, as a means of ascertaining how many of the votes cast in that ward were fraudulent, as charged, through stuffing of the ballot box.

BRITISH Flier ABANDONS TRIP

Dense Fog and Poor Visibility Forced Maj. MacLaren, to Make Landing

Accident Terminates His Attempted World Flight—On Way Home

ABOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER ALGONQUIN, Aug. 6.—(By wireless to the Associated Press, via St. Paul Island.)—Major A. Stuart MacLaren's own account of the accident last Saturday which terminated his attempted world flight near Nikoliski, Komandorski Islands, Siberia, has been given by the British aviator en route with his companion aboard the Thielbek for Dutch Harbor, Unalaska Island, in the Aleutians.

A dense fog and visibility so poor that only part of the right wing of the plane could be seen was encountered by the fliers after leaving Petropavlovsk, Siberia. Forced to descend to within 100 feet of the ocean and making 100 miles an hour, the disaster was narrowly averted by Flying Officer W. N. Plenderleith, piloting the plane, when he avoided by two feet an island which appeared suddenly in the path.

Fearing that the plane might dash against the cliffs of Bering island, a forced landing was made. Both wing tips were shattered and wrenched off and the fabric torn off the lower port wings, Major MacLaren said.

FORTUNES TO WIN BEAUTY

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. From my earliest years she urged me to enhance my beauty. She gave me her methods and formulas. Then she took me in a world-search for the newer beauty helps.

Most people know the results. I became a famous beauty, and for many years I directed the trade. And now, after 40 years in the limelight, I still play a beauty's part. I still look a girl of 19. Since then I have made many trips to France. I have consulted noted experts and famous beauties everywhere. I have spent fortunes to find all the latest discoveries. So I now have a great beauty helps in existence. And certainly my results seem to prove that.

I have been induced to place these hints at every woman's call. Drugists and toilet counters everywhere supply them. And now, for the first time, a woman may obtain for a trifling sum the hints that cost me fortunes.

One is a liquid cleanser which I call Facial Youth. Uncle Lantelme, the famous Parisian beauty, first told me what it did. Now leading beauty experts the world over are advising this great formula.

Posters in railroad stations and stickers on store packages, cards in trolley cars will also tell the story of the boost New England is to get with everybody behind it.

The general committee of the state campaign is at its headquarters in the next Boston chamber of commerce building, 30 Federal street, and has received many offers of free space and material from firms and individuals for advertising displays.

Retail stores, factories and other places of business everywhere in New England are arranging for suitable displays of New England made goods.

MRS. SHEDD'S DEATH

In the death of Mrs. Amy F. Shedd, a trust fund for the development of Shedd park is released, and this at a time when the money is much needed for the purpose. Shedd park came into possession of the city in 1910 and during the few remaining years of the donor's life, he died in 1913, he took special pride in the development of the park. The gateway alone is an attractive feature and the plans call for practically all the conveniences of the most complete public playground, including ball field, tennis courts, gymnasium, swimming pond and skating park in winter. (Already the park is of great value to the city and when fully developed according to the plans laid out by the eminent landscape architect employed by Mr. Shedd, it will equal any in the country.)

This gift of Mr. Shedd was accepted on condition that the plans submitted would be carried out; and it is on that condition that the trust fund of $100,000 now released will be expended. Moreover, the work of developing the original plans will be under the supervision of the landscape architect, or his successor, who drew the original plans. In other words it must have his approval.

Mr. Shedd could not have done a finer thing for the city than the donation of the land for this park. The time will come when he will have a real monument at some fitting point in our city, although the park itself will remain to perpetuate his memory for ages to come. And in honoring the memory of Mr. Shedd as a benefactor of our city let us not forget his estimable widow who now follows him through the portals of the tomb. In the gift to the city she rejoiced fully as much as he and watched the growing importance of the park with much satisfaction. The city should honor its benefactors and high in the list, if not at the head, will stand the name of Freeman Ballard Shedd, and in this connection, Mrs. Shedd, his devoted coworker, should not be forgotten.

POLITICAL SLACKERS

In the November election, much will depend upon the votes of women and on this occasion, they will undoubtedly vote in greater numbers than ever before.

Unfortunately, a very considerable proportion of the women of this city do not seem to realize that they have been granted the suffrage in all elections. Some are under the delusion that they must pay a poll tax before they can vote. In past years the payment of a poll tax was a prerequisite of voting, but it is no longer. The poll tax, collected only from men, has nothing to do with the right to vote. It will take a campaign of education to get this idea eradicated from the minds of thousands of women throughout the city.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION

An aged citizen viewing a blockade of motor vehicles on Merrimack street remarked: "We must build a city with wider streets or else put wings on our autos." The remark is not without force in reference to the traffic situation. All our streets are too narrow. They were laid out before the motor vehicles were thought of, but all new streets and all new towns and cities should be laid out on a motor vehicle plan. All we can do with our present streets is to avoid blocking them as much as possible and widen those that cause continued public inconvenience.

SMITH NOT TO RUN

It seems that Gov. Smith of New York has definitely decided not to run for re-election. After a conference with Mr. Davis, the democratic nominee, he announced his decision, although it is understood that Mr. Davis was very anxious to have him run. Gov. Smith will take an active part in the campaign in support of Mr. Davis and the democratic party, and it is safe to say that with the exception of Davis himself, there will not be a more influential campaigner on the stump in the coming election.

AN ARMS PARLEY

As an offset to the plan for Mobilization day in September, it is now announced that after the Dawes plan is put into operation in Europe, President Coolidge will call an arms parley with a view to the limitation of armaments, including submarines, aircraft and land forces. This is sufficiently indefinite to suit all purposes during the approaching campaign.

The alienists have their innings in the hearing on the Chicago murder case and what they say is of the usual character of such testimony. The defendants who before the murder were known as "intellectuals," are now "in-fantile" and we are told they committed the murder of the Franks boy while indulging a "childish fantasy." The same twaddle may be handed out for any criminal, however hardened.

It is Senator Wadsworth, republican, of New York, who reports to the White House that New York state will go for the republican ticket. He bases his opinion upon rumored dissensions in the democratic party, but he will probably find those breaches effectively closed after Gov. Smith makes a few campaign speeches.

The fact that several factories in Euston are working day and night on a Japanese order for 147,000 machine guns is hard to explain. Does Japan really expect that she will have any immediate need of such military equipment? Or is this move a result of our declaration in favor of a general Mobilization day?

Even with the exercise of due care on the highways, there will be accidents; but with so many drunken drivers wildly speeding throughout the state, the menace to public safety results in a condition under which nobody can venture out on Sundays or holidays except at the utmost peril.

The finding of liquor valued at $750 in the home of a relative of Chief Justice Taft does not reflect on the chief justice nor, according to the prohibition authorities, upon the owner, inasmuch as it is classed as pre-prohibition goods. Why not apply this term to other contraband liquors seized in raids?

The board of health issues a warning that acute cases of infantile paralysis should be isolated. If such a rule becomes the board should enforce it strictly as otherwise it will be ignored in a majority of cases.

Forty-seven arrests for drunkenness over the week-end and ten of them charged also with operating motor vehicles while in that condition. No wonder Judge Enright decided upon drastic measures.

Weather Prophet

"Who is that?" asked the visitor in Plunkett's. "Uncle Tob Wombar, our weather prophet," explained the native who was doing the honors. "Hey, Uncle Tob! What's the weather gonna be tomorrow?" Uncle Tob emitted a series of grunts, which the native interpreted. "Ho says it's gonna rain, or snow, or something." "I believe him," declared the visitor.

Inside Job

TOM, a Lancashire poultry fancier had sold his cot, and along with four friends went to remove it to its destination. Each of his companions took a corner and lifted it on his shoulders. As they rested halfway up the hill over which they had to travel, they missed the fancier, and each asked the other, "Where's TOM?" when a voice exclaimed from within the cot, "A'm inside, carrying th' perches."

Excuse Colner

Adolphus Aunum, clerk, was always late at work. Never was there such a genius at inventing excuses as Adolphus A., and he usually managed to smooth over the boss in most extraordinary manner, which was at once the admiration and envy of his fellow workers. Things got to the limit, however, when, one morning, Adolphus rolled in at 11:10. "What do you mean by coming in at this hour?" asked the boss, sternly, "he caught sight of the late comers. "I'm sorry, sir," was the reply, "but my wife presented me with a son last night." "I'm, did she?" asked the boss. "It's a pity she didn't present you with an alarm clock." "T've an idea she has done so, sir," was the swift retort.

In Sorry Fix

For the fourth time the teams had met in the cup competition, and not a goal had been scored. A somewhat depressed party were returning by train from the match, when one of them broke the gloomy silence with the remark: "Rotten game. Never saw a more uninteresting one in my life. A puzzled-looking member of the party was sitting in a corner of the compartment looked up, yawned, and began fumbling in his waistcoat pocket. Then suddenly he sprang to his feet with the exclamation, "Great Scott!" "What's up?" somebody asked. "Lost your watch?" "Watch be hanged!" cried the passenger. "I've left my wife asleep in the grandstand, and she's got my return half."

Ode to the Flowers

Flowers so bright, beautiful and dear,
Blooming continually in different lands all the year.

Shades of all colors in the sunshine gleam.

Like the sun peep through the trees on the woodland stream.

True greetings come to me—
To have your farewell company.

In signs of love and praise,
Blooming so beautiful day by day.

Now I love to think and accompany you;
With your bright, clear, gleaming hues;

And, fair flowers, I want to say,
You will always be in my pathway.

What would this world be without you?

In the days to come—and go?

But yet—I am lonesome without you.
When the days grow dreary and cold.

Your fragrance sailing through the air,

All of us can partly share.

A smile in the face as we look at you,

But the same return comes from your radiant hue.

Your varieties are too numerous for me to name.

My message brings to all good fame—
Aye, how lonesome this world would be!

Without the flowers' company!

Ponzi's Term at Plymouth Ends

through the depreciation in foreign exchange. Thousands of persons entrusted millions to him and many of them received the promised profits.

Finally the authorities stopped in and closed up the business. Ponzi was convicted in the federal court on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, the testimony indicating that the postal coupon scheme had not been operated as represented. Ponzi's company went into the hands of receivers, his paternal home in Lexington was sold for the benefit of creditors and he was sentenced to jail for five years. With the usual remittance for good behavior his term expired yesterday.

Involvement in Ponzi's crash was the Hanover Trust company of Boston, in which he was a large stockholder.

The bank was forced to close and the conditions disclosed there led to an investigation of several other trust companies in Boston which were closed by the bank commissioners because their assets had been impaired by improper loans and other irregularities.

Ponzi was taken from jail in 1922 to stand trial in the state court on charges of conspiracy and larceny and was acquitted, but other indictments are pending.

Ponzi's discharge as a prisoner at the county jail here, was accompanied by no formality. In charge of Deputy Sheriff Robbins, he was taken to Boston at an early hour, and there was to be turned over to the Suffolk county authorities.

Spends Morning in Dock

BOSTON, August 6—Charles Ponzi, discharged as a federal prisoner from the Plymouth jail today, spent the forenoon in the dock of the superior court house instead of obtaining the freedom on bonds that he had sought.

It was expected that Ponzi and Mrs. Ponzi had obtained surety for $14,000 that they believed would be acceptable to the district attorney.

Pending completion of the proceedings, however, the former financial wizard spent the bumpy day in the dock.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Nearly half a hundred Lowell young men, varying in ages from 17 to 22, are now engaged in diligently following the program prepared for them by the military executive experts supervising the activities of the citizens' military camp of 1924 at Ayer. The camp officially opened on Aug. 1 and terminates on the 31st day of the present month.

The aims of the army authorities and the young men numbering more than 3000, who are now wearing khaki uniforms on the training fields at Camp Devens are high; the quality of young American manhood whose names are on the encampment enrollment rolls, of the best of the best.

Just what actually does the citizens' military training camp do for the average patriotic American youth, who today eagerly seeks to engage in staging imitation war maneuvers and field sports on the historic military camp in Ayer? Let Colonel F. C. Bolles, U.S.A., commanding officer of the C.M.T.C. camp at Ayer last year, answer that query:

"I am of the opinion that he is benefited by such an attendance in the following respects: There is instilled in him a measure of self-discipline and respect of authority in its larger sense. I am assuming, of course, that no citizen is prepared to perform all his obligations as a citizen, unless he has a reasonable spirit of discipline and cooperation in all affairs of life."

"He will be instructed in citizenship by competent instructors and lectures by distinguished civilians. His physical condition will be improved by a series of systematic and progressive physical exercises, designed and supervised by the best physical instructors. He will be given a most careful physical examination at the expiration of the camp, at which time any physical defects would be noted and a report of same rendered to parents or relatives. In case remedial action is recommended, an outline of the same is furnished relatives."

"During the month at camp, the youth is surrounded by a moral environment of a high degree. His physical and sanitary surroundings are as perfect as careful preparation and supervision can insure. He will be involved in absolutely no financial obligation. His transportation to and from Camp Devens will, as well as his food, clothing, medical attention and housing, be borne by the United States government."

This is the inspiring program, all too briefly delineated, that 28 youths from this city are to follow until the 30th day of August. Quite an imposing program, and something well worth approval of all American citizens, is it not?

It is interesting indeed to sit down and chat with a man who has returned from abroad. It makes little difference in what country or countries most of his travel time was spent, for to those of us who confine our intimacy with European affairs to the daily news and picture postcard cards from considerate friends, what he has to recount is fascinating, instructive, and as we said before, interesting.

We speak particularly now of H. James E. O'Donnell, who gave us a few valved moments Tuesday morning, his first morning at his desk for six weeks. We interviewed him conversationally, without notes, and naturally one or two things slipped the mind when the story was being written an hour or so later. One point missed now comes to mind. It is that the heavy tax being imposed in England upon liquors and beer and an ordered reduction in alcoholic content together have placed the country almost in a state of prohibition. The luxury tax on liquors is too heavy to allow drinking as of yore and the result is a marked falling off in consumption. Then, too, the reduction of the alcoholic content by order of the government, has taken out much of the "kick."

The joy a person finds in the rare beauty of full-blown flowers never is fully realized until some thoughtful friend sends a freshly picked bouquet to adorn one's desk or living room table. On several occasions we have had opportunity to express our thanks to Mr. Azro Dow, local druggist, for his kindness in placing such a bouquet for our personal enjoyment and again today it became our pleasure to reiterate our appreciation. On our desk there now stands an exquisite cluster of dainty colored gladioli, running in this from a pure salmon pink to rich rose and royal purple. From sturdy stocks the flowers have opened to a beauty of purest ray serene and what is more, a multitude of buds, allows us to anticipate continued beauty as they unfold into full bloom. One does not necessarily have to know flowers intimately to enjoy them, their catalogued names mean nothing to most of us, but their beauty is one of the things that takes much of the commonplace out of work-a-day lives and helps immeasurably in a fuller understanding of God's beauty in nature.

Renewed activity for a stadium on the land now owned by the city and known as the First street oval has taken shape, I understand, and the sponsors, Smith J. Adams, Frank Reid, Louis Lora and other interested parties plan to bring the matter to the attention of the city council and the people as soon as possible.

Early this year the park department started men to prepare a baseball diamond on this plot of land, but the work has been held back considerably and as yet a regulation ball park has failed to materialize. The oval, as has been said, is ideal for stadium purposes.

The commons are not central enough to accommodate athletic teams in all sections of the city, whereas the oval is accessible to all. Let's have the stadium.

Conditions were so bad, the message declared, that it might be several weeks before the vessel could free herself. A Reykjavik dispatch last night said it was reported the Gertrude Rask had reached Angmagssalik but this has not been confirmed.

Late advices from the aviators said Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith commander of the expedition was in conference with Lieutenant Eric Nelson, the other remaining pilot and the conveying naval officers as to the next step.

The fliers may be faced with the alternatives of refueling near the edge of the ice field, landing in the open water near the Gertrude Rask or flying directly to Ivigtut on the southwest coast of Greenland instead of attempting to stop at Angmagssalik.

Browns and Pirates Are Now in the Spotlight in Their Respective Leagues

ST. LOUIS WINS 8 OF 9 GAMES IN A.L. —PITTSBURGH 10 OUT OF 11 IN N.L.

Four Straight Victories Scored By Browns Over Senators
—Former Now in Pennant Fight—Yanks Increase Lead
By Again Trimming Tigers

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The American spotlight, monopolized the past few weeks by New York, Detroit and Washington, has focused today upon St. Louis. As a result of four straight victories over the Senators and eight wins out of their last nine games, the Browns now are within a game and a half of the capital's representatives and four and a half behind the Yankees, who lead the Tigers by two contests.

Thriving on the intense heat which evidently wilted Detroit's pitchers, the Yanks placed 17 hits in every unguarded spot on Navin field and crossed the plate nine times to Detroit's two.

Ruth accounted for three of his team's tallies by whaling out his 35th homer with Wilt and Dugan on the base.

Shocker, holding Washington to three singles in the first game, and Danforth, who judiciously apportioned eight hits in the second, were chiefly responsible for St. Louis' double triumph over Washington. The scores were 2 to 0 and 4 to 2. Jacobson and Judge hit for the circuit in the night cap.

Chicago kept pace with the Browns, whom they trall by four games and a half with a two-ply win from Philadelphia, 5 to 2 and 8 to 3.

In a mound battle between Corry and Ferguson, Cleveland eked out a 1 to 0 decision over Boston. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, was a spectator.

Evening and night periods offset the excellent pitching of Guy Bush, the Cub recruit, and gave the Giants a 2 to 1 victory in 10 rounds. Bush yielded but four hits and drove in his team's only run with a double in the eighth.

Hank Gowdy Honored

Just before the game Hank Gowdy was presented with an engrossed copy of the order, naming the Army athlete field at Fort Benning, Ga., after him. A platoon of infantry marched in review in his honor.

Pittsburgh continued its sensational winning streak by taking home a straight game from Brooklyn by a score of 8 to 1. The Pirates have won 10 out of 11 games in the east. Kreamer put the Robins out of the running by limiting their attack to four hits.

Eleven innings were necessary to settle the Cincinnati-Philadelphia clash in favor of the former by a score of 4 to 3. The Phillies knotted the count in the eighth and ninth before finally succumbing to the Reds' irresistible offense.

It took St. Louis just two innings to put the game with Boston out of the Braves' reach. The Cardinals chased seven across the plate in the initial two frames and finally won, 8 to 4.

SILESIANS WHITEWASH FITCHBURG TEAM

The Silesia mills team of North Chelmsford administered a coat of whitewash to the Fitchburg club at North Chelmsford last night. The score was 4 to 0. Ruth Greenhalgh holding the heavy up-stusters to five scattered hits, while the Silesians clouted the offerings of Reinhart and Morgan for 8 hits, including two walkers by Captain Fried and Conley.

Silesia plays Woonsocket in North Chelmsford tonight.

JUDGES ARE PROUD OF SLUGGING NEPHews

By N.E.A. Service
AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 6.—Austin, capital of the largest state in the Union, has more than single reason to feel distinguished.

Last week Judge John W. Hornsby and Judge Henry Falk got together in a discussion of this and that.

The former casually remarked that his nephew, Rogers, is again leading the National league in batting. Whereupon Judge Falk returned, "Oh, stop bragging, look what my nephew Bill is doing in the American league." At the time Bill was leading the American league batters.

"Yes, sir! And Rogers was raised right here in Austin," Hornsby boasted.

"So was Bill," put in Falk. "In fact, this still is his home."

The news got around the town with the usual speed that hot gossip travels in towns the size of Austin. Austin threw out its chest when it learned that its two distinguished sons were leading the two big leagues in batting at the same time. This was something unparalleled in the history of baseball.

Falk went into the American league lead in early July by dint of a sensational batting spurt, during which he averaged two hits a game for a week. Hornsby has led the National league hitting almost from the start of the season.

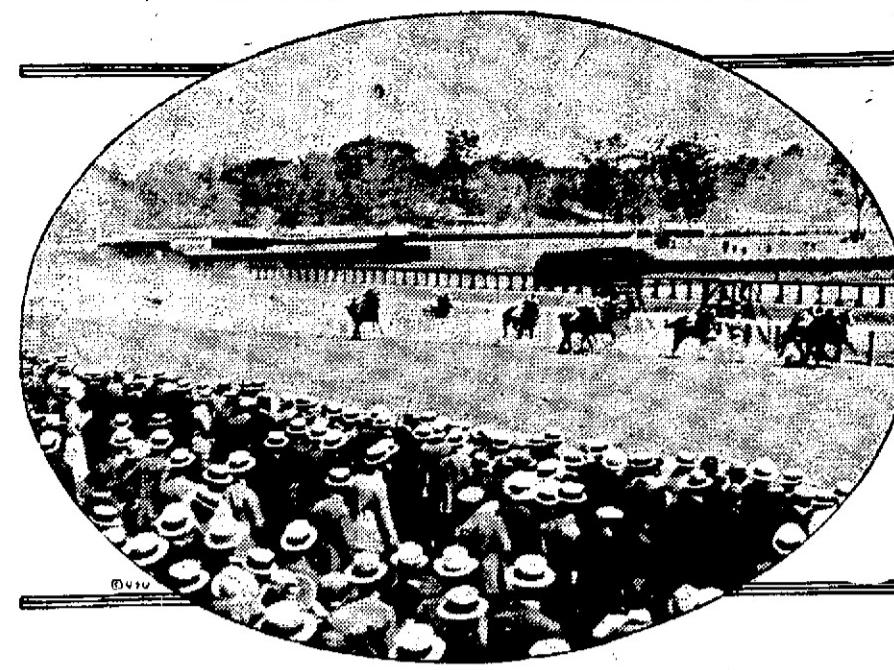

The rise of Falk and Hornsby to stardom in the majors has been sensational. Rogers first came to notice in Fort Worth in 1913 in a high school league after his family moved from Austin. His brother, Fred, was a star pitcher for the Dallas team in the Texas league. He persuaded Joe Gardner, owner of the Dallas club, to give Rogers a trial.

The younger Hornsby was a wonder in the field at short, but poor at bat. Gardner advised him to go out to a smaller league and in due time Rogers joined Hugo, Okla., later shifting to Denison, Tex., where he was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1915.

Falk first attracted attention when he was with Billy Dixie's University of Texas Southwestern conference champions in 1919. He pitched, played first base and outfield.

In 1922 Kid Gleason of the White Sox saw him in an exhibition game and prevailed upon Owner Comiskey to sign Falk. The transaction was made. Now Bill is regarded as one of the best looking players in the American league.

Falk has a young brother in Texas now who looks even better than Bill did in his college days.

LEAGUE PLAYERS

Twilight baseball players appeared at the park board meeting last night to complain against the manner in which the distribution of diamond permits on public parks is handled. After discussion it was agreed to continue through the few remaining weeks of the present season without change and the city agreed to give preference to the closest consideration before the commencement of the 1925 season. Scoring seven runs in the last half of the lucky seventh, Hogan's Centrals fall one marker short of tying the

C.M.A.C. in a Lowell Twilight league game on the South common last evening. The belated rally, while it did not produce the necessary effect, provided the fans and players with several thrilling moments, but the early lead of C.M.A.C. proved the last, the verdict by a score of 8 to 7.

C. M. A. C. was on the mound for the winners and held the Centrals scoreless for six frames. For the losers,

Tom Quimby started in the box and was going well until the heat got him in the fourth and the C.M.A.C. registered four times. Two more were pushed over the pan in the fifth, while the sixth and seventh netted one run each.

Quimby retired in the fourth in favor of his property in Swift street, adjacent to a playground and was referred to the police department.

The city solicitor conferred relative to land takings to develop the Hallestates and the O'Donnell playground

SON OF REAL DUKE WORKS AS SPARRING PARTNER

LONDON, Aug. 6.—There are no tin-eared pugilists in the training camp of Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, who is here to meet Jack Bloomfield August 9.

Instead Mr. Gibbons is being assisted by a member of the nobility. His chief sparring partner is none other than the Marquis of Clydesdale, son and heir of the Duke and Duchess of Hamilton, premier peer of Scotland.

The good marquis makes a most efficient sparring partner, too. Gibbons says the blue blood knows how to box and can hit. "I wouldn't want a better one," adds the American.

LEGENDRE'S GREAT JUMP A THRILLER

By N.E.A. Service

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Every season usually finds at least one outstanding performance in track and field competition. In 1923 it was Charles Brookins' sensational breaking of the 220-yard low hurdle record, a mark which had withstood the test of time for a quarter of a century.

This year, the honor goes to Robert Legendre, member of the Olympic team and former luminary at Georgetown University. Legendre earned his laurels in the running broad jump at the international games with leap of 25 feet, 6 inches, a new world's record. The old mark, three inches, was held by Ned Gourdin, Harvard brilliant.

Legendre's record was a surprise. It exceeded anything that he had ever done before by almost a foot. It is the most sensational performance turned in by any American athlete abroad.

Moreover, it cast De Hart Hubbard of Michigan out of the picture. Hubbard had been picked as the one most likely to smash Gourdin's mark. Several times Hubbard had gone beyond the 25-foot mark; once, 25 feet and 6 inches; and again, 25 feet 6 1/2, but the mark was disallowed because he overstepped the takeoff.

Now along comes Legendre with his thrilling leap and spills the dope. He made it in the decathlon. Hubbard, it is true, won the broad jump as expected, but was able only to clear 24 feet 6 inches.

Municipal Council Looks Askance at $75,000 Loan

cases, tabled until the next regular meeting. No motion was made of the weeks-old nomination of Charles J. Landers to succeed Fisher H. Pearson, holdover member of the board of health. The resignation of Dr. Joseph E. Lamoureux from the high school building commission was referred to the committee on public property with instructions to ask the resigning member to reconsider.

Suspicion greeted the introduction of the order to appropriate $75,000 for the new water main to the Oaklands. The order, drawn by the city solicitor, carried with it his approval as to form, as well as a letter of endorsement from the mayor. The preamble to the order contained an emergency clause which would permit omission of the usual form of advertising the order and allow for preliminary work to commence immediately on passage.

Upon the reading of the order, Councilors Cosgrove and Genest favored reference to the finance committee because of the expenditure involved, which it was provided would be obtained through a 5-year bond issue.

Councilors Fitzgerald and Sadler spoke for immediate passage on the ground that the job would provide work for unemployed. Mr. Cosgrove called attention to the Oaklands sewer job, $50,000 for which was secured under a similar "emergency" claim, and the votes of councilors were influenced by the statement that 200 men would be given employment. Mr. Cosgrove said he had visited this job a number of times and has never seen more than a dozen men at work there.

Motion Defeated

Mr. Genest asked for a vote on his move to refer to the finance committee. Six voted to commit and six against. For reference to committee: Chadwick, Chretien, McFadden, Genest, Gallagher, Dickson. Against committee reference: Sadler, Moriarty, Stearns, Hennessy, Cosgrove, Fitzgerald. Absent, therefore not voting, were Messrs. Daly, Lambert and McFadden.

The immediate passage as an emergency order was then brought to a vote. The same deadlock of six votes each stood. Each side was quick to seize upon the situation and in the avalanche of motions that followed all were marked by failure to pass. Once it was closed, seven votes were raised, enough to break the tie but not a council majority.

Mr. Genest suggested that inasmuch as the motion to pass had failed the council would do well to send the matter to the finance committee. Councilors Moriarty, Fitzgerald and Sadler.

A motion to adjourn until Friday was declared sustained by voice vote. Doubtless by Mr. Sadler, a standing count showed Moriarty, Sadler, Fitzgerald and Genest against such a move and with but seven in favor, one vote was lacking to pass. Mr. Stearns then moved to vote a special motion for Friday night. The filibusters stood pat and that failed to take.

Mr. Fitzgerald moved for the adoption of the order. The chair ruled him out of order on the ground that the preamble, making the order an emergency order, had not been found acceptable. Mr. Dickson said he failed to see the reason for the sudden haste.

"If the councillor lived in my district he could see it," said Mr. Fitzgerald.

The Oakland sewer question bothered up again and Mr. McFadden moved that the board of public service be requested to furnish the council with a statement of progress on that job, a statement of expenditure for labor and materials thus far and definite information as to whether any job-seekers would ever benefit by this "emergency" improvement.

Capt. Reynolds, the assistant superintendent of the water department is here and I would suggest that the council hear from him," said Mr. Sadler.

"Before we get away from that $50,000 Oakland sewer order," interrupted Mr. Dickson, "I want to say that I voted for it because I was impressed with the 'emergency' clause and the statements that work would be provided for a few hundred men. I wouldn't vote for it today with what knowledge I now have. I am not prepared to vote on this second 'emergency' order for the Oakland until I am better satisfied about the first and know much more than I do now about this one. Let me say frankly I am skeptical as to the sincerity of the emergency clause in this order."

Mr. Fitzgerald moved for the acceptance of the emergency clause and Mr. Cosgrove seconded. Messrs. Dickson, Gallagher, Genest and McFadden voted against passage and the administration forces could muster but six, Cosgrove, Fitzgerald, Hennessy, Stearns, Sadler and Moriarty. Lacking a majority it failed to pass.

What is the matter with the pitcher?

Major league managers are agreed that the pitching end of the game is at low ebb.

The poorest pitching for 10 years is the consensus of the big league leaders.

There must be a reason, perhaps many of them, for this condition.

Pitchers will tell you that with the introduction of the lively ball is the big reason for the present lack of effectiveness.

With the coming of the lively ball, pitchers insist a new style game was demanded, a glorified game.

Instead of playing for a run, the style of game that calls for strategy, major league methods shifted to the getting runs in clusters, through the medium of slugging.

A majority of the pitchers blame the lively ball for the decided superiority of the batter that now prevails.

Recently the Cleveland Indians played a series in Boston. In every game both clubs had from two to six pitchers in action. In one of the games Cleveland made a dozen runs.

Making the jump west with the Cleveland club, I bumped into Manager Tris Speaker at the Boston station. He was pacing up and down the platform, a man much worried. Spying me nearby, he walked over. "My first words were,

"Did you ever see such pitching in all your life?" he agreed with me that it was pretty tough.

"Never in all my career in the American League has it been worse," continued Speaker.

"It's not so much that the pitchers lack control," he pointed out.

"I don't believe my club has been in a game for a month in which pitchers haven't had three balls and two strikes on at least 20 batters."

It is Speaker's opinion that lack of control is the real cause of the ineffectiveness of the pictures. The baton is being handed to the twirlers and hitting the critics.

I am inclined to agree with Speaker's viewpoint. Never have I seen so much withdrawal on the part of the pitcher.

Every pitcher wants to make the batter hit a bad ball. The batter, however, is forced to get the ball over the batter takes advantage of the soft offering.

The pitchers come right back by saying they would never get the side out if they kept putting the ball over.

With that, they ride back to their argument that the lively ball is the cause of their trouble. They insist they cannot afford to cut the plate,

Central street, for a license under the itinerant vendor's law. Messrs. Cosgrove, Stearns, McFadden and Fitzgerald spoke against permitting firms to enter for a short time, cut into the trade of local merchants by auctions and quick turnovers and then leave the city. The vote to permit withdrawal was unanimous.

Hon. Dennis J. Murphy appeared to speak in favor of the petition to establish a Polish cemetery in Cunningham street and permission was granted subject to the approval of the city solicitor and the board of health.

Attorney C. J. O'Neill and Smith J. Adams spoke for members of the City Twilight League and other baseball devotees in favor of a petition to improve the North and South commons and the First Street oval. A special council committee of five to confer with the park board and the petitioners was named. Messrs. Daly, Moriarty, Chretien, Stearns and Fitzgerald constitute the committee.

Central Bridge Report

The report on Central bridge was read by Councilor McFadden, chairman of the committee. On motion of Mr. Stearns the report was re-committed with instructions to consider the hiring of an expert and also a public hearing at which persons interested could be heard. Mr. Cosgrove suggested the committee consider the feasibility of renaming the bridge as Memorial bridge. The report of special committee follows:

Condition of Present Bridge

A study has been made by your committee first, to repair the present bridge and second to build a new bridge all in conformity with specifications for loads of the Massachusetts state board of public utilities.

Plants and Estimates

Using the present trusses, with some adjustments, repairs could be made to the bridge by removing the present concrete roadway deck, adding steel shelf angles on the steel stringers to support new timber ties; constructing a new crossed yellow pine wood floor, consisting of solid decking laid on timber ties, the latter supported by the stringer shelf angles; waterproofing the deck; laying new wood block paving, add new curbs; raising of street grade at both ends to correspond to new elevation of bridge floor; cleaning and painting of existing steel work.

The estimated cost of the above work including engineering is $4,000.

In this estimate no allowance is made for buying new rails, nor salvaging of old rails.

These repairs could be made and traffic maintained over the bridge at the same time. Estimated length of time for these repairs is four months.

New Bridge

After weighing traffic conditions, should it be considered advisable to build a new bridge at this site, your committee submits the following:

Type A—Steel Girder

Superstructure—Six equal spans at 50 feet approx.; steel girder, increased with concrete deck; bituminous pavement; concrete balustrades; metal lamp posts; width of roadway 45 feet; total width center to center balustrades, 60 feet.

Foundations: Existing piers and abutments to be lengthened and three new piers to be constructed. River bed to be dredged to compensate for removal of waterway by new piers.

Total estimated cost for removal of old structure and new construction, including engineering, $100,000.

Cost of temporary bridge, length 300 feet, width 30 feet, including engineering, $4,000.

Total cost of new bridge and temporary bridge, $104,000.

REPORTER HAS LETTER "K" BURNED ON FOREHEAD AND ARM

Writer For French Language Paper at Woonsocket, R. I., Says Marks Made by Hooded Klansmen With Heated Iron and Torch

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 5.—Luis C. San Souci, reporter for La Tribune, a French language newspaper here, appeared today with the letter "K" burned on his forehead and left arm, saying the marks were made by hooded Klansmen with a heated iron and torch in the woods between Branch Village and Blackstone, Mass., last night. They had discovered him hiding in the grass near the scene of a Klan meeting, he said.

San Souci reported the matter to Judge Maratta of district court, to Chief Coe of the Woonsocket police, and to Town Sergeant W. J. Allaire of North Smithfield. The place is in the latter's jurisdiction, and he was understood to be coming here to question George E. Baker of New York, will be erected on the Boston side of the Charles river near the stadium.

From the first stage of the competition, unpaid and open to all architects in the United States, six winners will be selected. These with six others to be chosen by the university and Mr. Baker will enter the paid competition.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Frank T. Tinney announced today that she had determined to sue for separation from her comedian husband, whose recent arrest and hearing on charges of having administered beating to Jimogene Wilson, a Follies girl, caused widespread attention.

"I've had all I can stand," Mrs. Tinney said while process-servers were seeking her husband on the steamship Columbus, on which he was to sail for Europe today. "I've tried to play the game with Frank and he's a good fellow and a regular pal. But you can only use a postage stamp once, and I guess that about describes me."

Mrs. Tinney added that papers asking the separation already had been prepared and would be filed later in the day. She said she would not seek a divorce.

Attorneys for Mrs. Tinney later announced that they had located Tinney in the Columbus and had served him with papers in the separation suit.

The suit itself, they said, will be filed in the supreme court next Friday.

The business concluded, King Lion G. Forrest Martin introduced the speaker of the day, Lieutenant-Governor Alvin T. Fuller, candidate for republican nomination for governor.

Mr. Fuller expressed his pleasure in being allowed to address the Lowell Lions and thanked the members for their presence. He had chosen "Government" as the subject of his address and said, in part:

"As soon as a man becomes a candidate for any public office, he is seized with a feverish desire to go racing about the state or the country, telling all the voters that their one hope for salvation lies in electing him. I wonder if it wouldn't be just as well for all the candidates, and better for the state and the nation, if we put a silencer and muzzle on every man five minutes after he gave to the public the priceless information that he wanted to be elected to something. I suppose the voters would have just as good a chance of electing the right man if the candidates limited themselves to one statement of 500 words, to be issued at the moment they announced their candidacy, and one additional statement of similar length 48 hours before election. But I don't suppose I would have any success in getting such a plan adopted."

The Lieutenant-governor referred at length to "free speech," declaring that "almost everything in this world becomes exhausted in time except speech." He spoke of "the importance of studying political policies and candidates before making a personal choice," continuing, he said:

"I am not so much concerned just now with whether you vote for me or for somebody else, or whether you vote for republicans or democrats, as I am with the thought that you ought to vote with a conviction and with a knowledge of the men and issues before you. Do not make the mistake of thinking that because you are business men, you have nothing to do with politics."

"You can give us little thought to politics as you choose; but you will not thereby escape the consequences of bad government, nor will you fail to profit by the blessings of good government."

"An successful government depends upon prosperous business conditions, so it is true that if business is to prosper it must have the protection and encouragement of an honestly and ably conducted government. That means honest and able men in office. There is no other way. You cannot eliminate the human equation. Government is never automatic. Laws are framed and enacted by human beings. They are administered by human beings."

"If you want good-laws, and if you want them properly administered, there is just one way to get them—keep your eyes on candidates for office and elect the right man. You hire the ablest men you can get. Then vote for the ablest man you can get. And that is the best piece of political advice I can give you."

ARMY TO SEND PLANE TO NOVA SCOTIA TO BE USED BY LT. WADE

Arrangements Completed to Despatch Airship From Langley Field, Va., to Enable Lieut. Wade to Join Other World Fliers on Homeward Journey

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Arrangements were completed today by the army air service to send an airplane from Langley Field, Va., to Pictou Harbor, Nova Scotia, to be used by Lieut. Leigh Wade from that place over the remaining route of the world flight in company with two other fliers.

Lieutenant Wade's original craft, the wrecked machine could be salvaged. The substitute will be christened the Boston II. It is the extra Douglas machine used by the pilots during their training for the flight and will be flown from Langley Field by Lieut. George C. McDonald. The date of departure has not been definitely determined. Stops will be Keypoint, N. J., Boston, Mass., and either Bar Harbor or Rockland, Me., during the trip to Nova Scotia.

Decisions to send the new plane to Lieut. Wade indicated that small hope was held by air service officers that he would be able to return to the United States.

MAN HURT IN RUNAWAY DIES AT HOSPITAL

William K. Couillard, 67, of 121 Willie street, died at St. John's hospital early today as a result of injuries sustained when thrown from a wagon in Prescott street early in the evening of July 30. One of the wagon wheels ran over his body, badly crushing his chest and fracturing one leg. Although he lived for a week, little hope was held out for his recovery and his name never was taken from the dangerous list.

The accident occurred when Couillard's pair of horses hitched to a heavy wagon became unmanageable and ran away. When the wagon struck an electric car he was thrown from the driver's seat underneath the wheels.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Couillard, two step granddaughters and several nieces and nephews.

The body was removed from the hospital to the rooms of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake in Merkul street.

HUMIDITY TODAY HIGHEST OF THE SEASON

No one will doubt that the dog star Sirius and the sun have risen together for the past two days at least. Dog-day heat, depressing enough to chase away the last small inclination to work, made yesterday's and today's weather about as unbearable as any experienced this summer. Each morning was cool enough, but as Sirius began to dog the sun's heels in mid-afternoon, a sultry wave swept over the city and intensified to such a degree that even the highest thermometer readings did not begin to tell the story.

Yesterday's maximum heat, taken by the Locks and Cannis at 4 p. m., was even 90, while at 1 p. m. today, with three hours left to go, the thermometer at Pawtucket dam showed 89 degrees. The humidity was higher.

The early morning reading today, taken at 6:45 o'clock, was 87 degrees, against a reading of 68 degrees yesterday at the same hour, but the heat developed more rapidly today and was accompanied by even more humidity than was registered yesterday.

No heat prostrations have been reported, due, probably, to the exercise of unusual care.

$100,000,000 SUIT FILED BY CROCKER

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—A suit asking $100,000,000 damages was filed by Conrad W. Crocker today on behalf of E. F. Brown of Ipswich, against the New York, New Haven and Hartford and Boston and Maine railroads, the Boston Railroad Holding company, the Boston Railroad Holding company, the estates of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, William Rockefeller and a score of others. It is contended that these damages have resulted from the New Haven road's part in the control of the Boston and Maine. Brown is chairman of the Boston and Maine railroad stockholders' protective committee.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Couillard, two step granddaughters and several nieces and nephews.

The body was removed from the hospital to the rooms of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake in Merkul street.

WILL NOT CLOSE COFFEE HOUSES SUNDAY ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT OF ST. PETER'S CADETS

At a meeting of the license commission last night, petitioners for the closing of the Greek coffee houses during church services Sunday morning were given leave to withdraw. This decision was reached after the commission had granted a hearing on the matter, the remonstrants being represented by Attorneys George E. Tove and Daniel J. Donahue, and the proponents by Attorney James J. Bruin.

Mr. Bruin, representing the recently deposed bishop of the local Greek church, Bishop Basilios Kambouropoulos, argued in favor of the closing of the coffee houses during Sunday church services, saying that they interfered with church services. It is not an uncommon sight, he said, to see men sitting in chairs along the sidewalk while people are going to and from the churches in that vicinity. He added that their attitude was the subject of complaints in the district.

The opposition objected to the petition in view of the fact that Bishop Kambouropoulos, the original petitioner, is no longer officially connected with the Greek church here, and that people could not be compelled to attend church services whether the coffee houses were open or not.

The commissioners said they were not aware of any complaints coming from the coffee house section from people going to church. There is ample police protection in the district, they said, and the motion of Dr. Rooney that the petitioners be granted leave to withdraw, was voted.

Louis J. Ragofsky appeared for the second time with reference to obtaining a license for a second-hand clothing store at 317 Middlesex street. Through his counsel, Daniel J. Donahue, he presented a petition signed by several business men in the vicinity saying that they did not object to his conducting business near them. To give the remonstrants an opportunity to present their side of the argument, the hearing was continued until next week. Attorney J. Joseph Hennessy will represent the remonstrants.

Renewals of licenses were granted as follows:

Hawker and peddler, Benjamin Sidman of 123 Railroad street; and John Steiner of 69 Dalton street; lodging house, Mildred E. Jacobs of 94 Bridge street; Junk dealers, Samuel Cohen of 43 Apple street and Simon Rosenfeld of 107 Stevens street; ice cream and confectionery, Mary S. Callery Barth of 403 Middlesex street; express, Earl C. Downs of 461 Chelmsford street.

ONE KILLED IN CRASH

Operator of One-Man Trolley
Fatally Injured and Five
Hurt in Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Motorman Fred Potter of the Boston Elevated was fatally injured and five of his passengers seriously hurt, when his inbound one-man car, sweeping down grade, telescoped another one-man car that had stopped to take on passengers at Hyde Park avenue and Southbourne road, Roslindale, late yesterday afternoon. Without regaining consciousness, Potter died at 8:15 last night at the city hospital.

Scores of passengers, bound for the Forest Hills elevated station, screamed helplessly as the 62-year-old operator dropped in the vestibule, prostrated either by the heat or heart failure, just before his car raced into the rear-end of the other.

Jammed Under Wreckage

With a terrific crash the two cars deadlocked, hurling passengers from their seats under a shower of flying glass and debris. The veteran operator was tossed flat on his back, his lower body jammed in the wreckage of the two cars. It was fully 25 minutes before he was extricated from the mass of twisted iron, shattered glass and kindling wood.

The front end of his car was crushed in as far as the coil box. The rear end of the first car was mushroomed to the long seats. But it was Potter's car that bore the brunt of the collision. Practically the entire front vestibule, including the doors and the steps, was demolished. The controller was pitched back into the aisle.

When the heavy wreckage was lifted from the motorman his right lower leg was missing. It was amputated at the hip at the City hospital, to which he was taken in the ambulance of the West Roxbury police.

At the hospital Dr. Ireland Taylor also found that Potter's left leg had been fractured in several places. Besides he had received internal injuries—multiple contusions and a lacerated scalp. Surgeons immediately placed his name on the danger list and summoned his wife, Mrs. Fred Potter of 79 Capen street, Milton. He died not long after she arrived at his bedside.

While a corps of policemen were removing the wreckage from the motorman's mangled legs, Thomas Kelly of Jamison Plain, operator of the first car, hustled through the frightened passengers, assisting the women and children and giving first aid to the injured. To him was given praise for restoring order.

Fleets of motors pulled up alongside to take the injured to hospitals. Their operators got out their accident kits and administered first aid to the stricken passengers.

John Leaneay, a 50-year-old passenger, received severe injuries to his back. He was taken to the Forest Hills hospital, where he was put to bed for further treatment. Notice of his injuries was sent to his family at 678 Parker street, Roxbury.

Mrs. Helen Crowley, 24, of 16 Garden street, Roslindale, was also raced to the Forest Hills hospital by a passing automobile. There she was treated for abrasions of the face. Her checks were cut by flying glass and splinters. After treatment she was taken to her home.

Broken glass pierced the scalp of Henry H. Monahan, a 22-year-old man employed as a foreman by the Elevated, who was riding on the rear end. His right hand was bruised, but after being treated at the Forest Hills hospital he was taken to his home at 17 Park street, Dorchester.

Edward Joyce, 54, received severe gash in his head when struck by a big piece of glass. His wound was dressed and then he was removed to his home at 14 Marlton street, Dorchester.

Several other passengers suffered minor injuries. Some walked away after they had been attended by motorists, generous with their supply of iodine and adhesive tape.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Fine performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "Babbitt," Sinclair Lewis' noted novel of American life, with an able cast of favorites, and "George Washington, Jr.", an adaptation of George Cohan's famous play with Walter Barron in the leading role.

For the latter half of the week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Manager Peterson has arranged another of his typically excellent Merrimack Square programs. Underlined as features are "Hospitality," starring Buster Keaton, and "Theater," a new in a spectacular full-length comedy of a Kentucky feud of 100 years ago, and "The Love Pirate," with Carmel Myers, a fascinating story of romance, thrills, adventure, intrigue and suspense. In addition there will also be a special matinee of "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Latest International News. And don't forget that it's cool and comfortable in the Merrimack Square, no matter how warm it is in the outside world.

Karolynne's feature comedy, "Our Hospitality," is the second under his new alliance with Metro. It is built on the humorous side of American life in the early 1830's. A boy and girl love story and Kentucky feud furnish the romance and drama, with Buster playing a fashionable youth of the middle class.

Buster makes screen love to his wife, Natalie Talmadge Keaton. Other members of the family appearing are Baby Joe (Buster II) and Buster's father, Joseph Keaton, a noted family players star; Joe Roberts, Kitty Bradford, Jean Dunnas, Ralph Bushman, Craig Ward and Jack Duffy.

Carmel Myers, according to reports from other cities, has added one more remarkable characterization, to the many already to her credit, as a cabaret performer. In "The Wizard of Oz" the second feature, in the earlier scenes she portrays admirably, it is said, the happy, carefree, sophisticated girl of this type who, while she loves her part with detestable touches that carry her from the thought of love and happiness to hatred and revenge.

Though the defense alienists testify that "deceased motivation," "boyish fantasies" and a "childish compact" founded on perversion, activated the crime, the state has contended for a jury trial.

BRITISH Flier ABANDONS TRIP

Dense Fog and Poor Visibility Forced Maj. MacLaren, to Make Landing

Accident Terminates His Attempted World Flight—On Way Home

ABOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER ALGONQUIN, Aug. 6.—(By wire, less to the Associated Press, via St. Paul Island.)—Major A. Stuart MacLaren's own account of the accident last Saturday which terminated his attempted world flight near Nikoliski, Kamandorski Islands, Siberia, has been given by the British aviator en route with his companions aboard the Thiepval for Dutch Harbor, Unalaska Island, in the Aleutians.

A dense fog and visibility so poor that only part of the right wing of the plane could be seen was encountered by the fliers after leaving Petropavlovsk, Siberia. Forced to descend to within 100 feet of the ocean and making 100 miles an hour, a disaster was narrowly averted by Flying Officer W. N. Panderleith, piloting the plane, when he avoided by two feet an island which appeared suddenly in the path.

Fearing that the plane might dash against the cliffs of Bering island, a forced landing was made. Both wing tips were shattered and wrenched off and the fabric torn off the lower port wings, Major MacLaren said.

I Spent

FORTUNES TO WIN BEAUTY

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. From my earliest years she urged me to enhance my beauty. She gave me her methods and formulas. Then she took me in a world-search for the newer beauty hints.

Most people know the results. I became a famous beauty, and for many years I remained the rage. And now, after I have left the limelight, I still play a beauty part. I still look a girl of 19.

Since then I have made many trips to France. I have come to know and famous beauties everywhere. I have spent fortunes to find all the latest discoveries. So I believe that I now have greatest beauty hints. And certainly my results seem to prove that.

I have been induced to place these hints at every woman's call. Druggists and toilet counters everywhere supply them—the very hints I use. Thus every woman may obtain for a trifling sum the best in beauty.

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. Lucia Lantelme, the famous Parisian beauty, first told me what it did. Now leading beauty experts the world over are advising this great formula.

Posters in railroad stations and stickers on store packages, cards in trolley cars will also tell the story of the boost New England is to get with everybody behind it.

The general committee of the state campaign is at its headquarters in the next Boston chamber of commerce building, 80 Federal street, and has received many offers of free space and material from firms and individuals for advertising displays.

Retail stores, factories and other places of business everywhere in New England, are arranging for suitable displays of New England made goods.

Conductor is killed and 13 passengers are injured when wooden elevated train crashed into steel subway train near Brighton Beach, New York City.

U. S. Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, farm bloc leader and candidate to succeed himself, has commanding lead, according to returns in Kansas primaries.

Executive council of American Federation of Labor appeals to 3000 affiliated unions to begin immediate campaign in behalf of Senators La Follette and Wheeler and other candidates endorsed by federation.

Prince of Wales accepts invitation to occupy country home of Mr. and Mrs. Abercrombie Burden at Syosset, L. I., during his visit to America in September.

Probable formation of "new third party" from conference for progressive political action, which brought about independent candidacy of Senator La Follette "is of utmost significance" in industrial review of year.

Republican national committee is considering establishment of regional headquarters at Minneapolis for northwestern states, it is made known at Washington.

The newest craze in beauty circles is a lovely apple blossom complexion. Not only is it fashionable in society, but it bids fair to last as long as women live. It has been believed that science some day would perfect a cream that would give to every girl a beautiful white-pinkish, child-like skin. You can now have it by the use of Mello-Go Beauty Cream. This wonderful beautifier is applied at night and while you sleep all sallowness and imperfections are fading away until your complexion fairly blossoms with beauty and life—possessing a fascinating glow with a texture so fine and faultless. You will be amazed at the transformation. Try it tonight. Get a jar of Fashion's favorite beautifier and let people admire your apple blossom complexion.

MRS. SHEDD'S DEATH

In the death of Mrs. Amy F. Shedd, a trust fund for the development of Shedd park is released, and this at a time when the money is much needed for the purpose. Shedd park came into possession of the city in 1910 and during the few remaining years of the donor's life, he died in 1913, he took special pride in the development of the park. The gateway alone is an attractive feature and the plans call for practically all the conveniences of the most complete public playground, including ball field, tennis courts, gymnasium, swimming pond and skating park in winter. Already the park is of great value to the city and when fully developed according to the plans laid out by the eminent landscape architect employed by Mr. Shedd, it will equal any in the country.

This gift of Mr. Shedd was accepted on condition that the plans submitted would be carried out; and it is on that condition that the trust fund of $100,000 now released will be expended. Moreover, the work of developing the original plans will be under the supervision of the landscape architect, or his successor, who drew the original plans. In other words it must have his approval.

Mr. Shedd could not have done a finer thing for the city than the donation of the land for this park. The time will come when he will have a real monument at some fitting point in our city, although the park itself will remain to perpetuate his memory for ages to come. And in honoring the memory of Mr. Shedd as a benefactor of our city let us not forget his estimable widow who now follows him through the portals of the tomb. In the gift to the city she rejoiced fully as much as he and watched the growing importance of the park with much satisfaction. The city should honor its benefactors and high in the list, if not at the head, will stand the name of Freeman Ballard Shedd, and in this connection, Mrs. Shedd, his devoted coworker, should not be forgotten.

POLITICAL SLACKERS

In the November election, much will depend upon the votes of women and on this occasion, they will undoubtedly vote in greater numbers than ever before.

Unfortunately, a very considerable proportion of the women of this city do not seem to realize that they have been granted the suffrage in all elections. Some are under the delusion that they must pay a poll tax before they can vote. In past years the payment of a poll tax was a prerequisite of voting; but it is no longer. The poll tax, collected only from men, has nothing to do with the right to vote. It will take a campaign of education to get this idea eradicated from the minds of thousands of women throughout the city.

Another matter to be remembered is, that the fact of being assessed is not a guarantee of having your name on the voting list. Sometimes names are dropped without any apparent cause, and it is, therefore, a wise precaution for each voter to see that his name is on the list. Where names are dropped in this way, it is easy to have them restored by notifying the election commission or by registration. But the persons whose names have not already been on the list, if eligible, to vote, must get registered in the usual way.

SMITH NOT TO RUN

It seems that Gov. Smith of New York has definitely decided not to run for re-election. After a conference with Mr. Davis, the democratic nominee, he announced his decision, although it is understood that Mr. Davis was very anxious to have him run. Gov. Smith will take an active part in the campaign in support of Mr. Davis and the democratic party, and it is safe to say that with the exception of Davis himself, there will not be a more influential campaigner on the stump in the coming election.

AN ARMS PARLEY

As an offset to the plan for Mobilization day in September, it is now announced that after the Dawes plan is put into operation in Europe, President Coolidge will call an arms parley, with a view to the limitation of armaments, including submarines, aircraft and land forces. That is sufficiently indefinite to suit all purposes during the approaching campaign.

The alienists have their innings in the hearing on the Chicago murder case and what they say is of the usual character of such testimony. The defendants who before the murder were known as "intellectuals," are now "infantile" and we are told they committed the murder of the Franks boy while indulging a "childish fantasy." The same twaddle may be handed out for any criminal, however hardened.

It is Senator Wadsworth, republican, of New York, who reports to the White House that New York state will go for the republican ticket. He bases his opinion upon rumored dissensions in the democratic party, but he will probably close after Gov. Smith makes a few campaign speeches.

The fact that several factories in England are working day and night on a Japanese order for 137,000 machine guns is hard to explain. Does Japan really expect that she will have any immediate need of such military equipment? Or is this move a result of our declaration in favor of a general Mobilization day?

Even with the exercise of due care on the highways, there will be accidents, but with so many drunken drivers wildly speeding throughout the state, the menace to public safety results in a condition under which nobody can venture out on Sundays or holidays except at the utmost peril.

The finding of liquor valued at $2500 in the home of a relative of Chief Justice Taft, does not reflect on the chief justice nor, according to the prohibition authorities, upon the owner, inasmuch as it is classed as pre-prohibition goods. Why not apply this term to other contraband liquors seized in raids?

CONRAD PASSES

A bright star in the literary firmament has disappeared with the death of Joseph Conrad, the brilliant English novelist. It is hardly correct to designate him as an English novelist except in the sense that it was in the English language he made his great triumphs as a novelist. The son of a Polish revolutionist, he joined the French merchant navy on the death of his father when he was only 13 years old, but through his native talent he soon rose to the position of captain. The life at sea stirred his imagination and filled his mind with the plots of novels which he afterwards gave to the world after having mastered the English language. That he should have attained such excellence in English is one of the surprising achievements of his life. Vivid descriptions and the tensest kind of human interest characterize all his writings and in each there is a touch of genius that places him on a level by himself and above the reach of competitors.

Forty-seven arrests for drunkenness over the week-end and ten of them charged also with operating motor vehicles while in that condition. No wonder Judge Enright decided upon drastic measures.

SEEN AND HEARD

Pretty nearly every day is sun day now.

Lowell has her share of wife-supported man.

If you don't work yourself for a living you've got to work somebody else.

That German bear and Canadian also that some of the boys were blowing about was probably imported from Willow Dale.

Whatever advice ye give, be short—Horace.

Weather Prophet
"Who is that?" asked the visitor in Plunkville. "Uncle Tom. Womish, our weather prophet," explained the native who was doing the honors. "Hoy, Uncle Tom! What's the weather gonna be tomorrow?" Uncle Tom emitted a series of grunts, which the native interpreted. "He says it's gonna rain, or snow, or sompin'." "I believe him," declared the visitor.

Inside Job
Bill, a Lancashire poultry fancier, had sold his estate, and along with four friends went to repurchase it. His master, each of his companions took a corner and lifted it on his shoulders. As they rested halfway up the hill over which they had to travel, they missed the fancier, and each asked the other, "Where's Bill?" when a voice exclaimed from within the coats, "Ah're insides, carrying th' perchers."

Excuse Coliner
Adolphus Annum, clerk, was always late at work. Never was there such a genius at inventing excuses as Adolphus A., and he usually managed to smooth over the boss in a most extraordinary manner, which was at once the admiration and envy of his fellow workers. Things got to the limit, however, when, one morning, Adolphus rolled in at 11:10. "What do you mean by coming in at this hour?" asked the boss sternly, as he caught sight of the late comer. "I'm sorry, sir," was the reply, "but my wife presented me with a son last night." "H'm, did she?" asked the boss. "It's a pity she didn't present you with an alarm clock." "I've an idea she has done so, sir," was the swift retort.

In Sorry Fix
For the fourth time the teams had met in the cup competition, and not a goal had been scored. A somewhat dejected party were returning by train from the match, when one of them broke the gloomy silence with the remark: "Rotter game. Never saw a more uninteresting one in my life. A puzzled-looking member of the party who was sitting in a corner of the compartment looked up, yawned, and began fumbling in his waistcoat pocket. Then suddenly he sprang to his feet with the exclamation, "Great Scott!" "What's up?" somebody asked. "Lost your watch?" "Watch be hang-ed!" cried the passenger. "I've left my wife asleep in the grandstand, and she's got my return half."

Ode to the Flowers
Flowers so bright, beautiful and dear,
Blooming continually in different colors
Shades of all colors in the sunshine gleam,
Like the sun peep through the trees on the woodland stream.

True greetings come to me—
To have your farewell company.
In signs of love and praise,
Blooming so beautiful day by day.

How I love to think and accompany you,
With your bright, clear, gleaming hues;

And, fair flowers, I want to say,
You will always be in my pathway.

What would this world be without you?

In the days to come—and go?
But yet—I am lonesome without you
When the days grow dreary and cold.

Your fragrance calling through the air,
All of us can partly share.

A smile in the face as we look at you,
But the same return comes from your radiant hue.

Your varieties are too numerous for me to name,
My message brings to all good fame—

Aye, how lonesome this world would be
Without the flowers' company!

Ponzi's Term at Plymouth Ends

through the depreciation in foreign exchange. Thousands of persons entrusted millions to him and many of them received the promised profits.

Finally the authorities stepped in and closed up the business. Ponzi was convicted in the federal court on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, the testimony indicating that the postal coupon scheme had not been operated as represented. Ponzi's company went into the hands of receivers, his paternal home in Lexington was sold for the benefit of creditors and he was sentenced to jail for five years. With the usual remittances for good behavior his term expired today.

Involved in Ponzi's crash was the Beacon Trust company of Boston, in which he was a large stockholder. The bank was forced to close and the conditions disclosed there led to an investigation of several other trust companies in Boston which were closed by the bank commissioner because their assets had been impaired by improper loans and other irrotundities.

Ponzi was taken from jail in 1922 to stand trial in the state court on charges of conspiracy and larceny and was acquitted, but other indictments were pending.

Ponzi's discharge as a prisoner at the county jail here was accompanied by no formality. In charge of Deputy Sheriff Robbins, he was taken to Boston at an early hour, and there was to be turned over to the Suffolk county authorities.

La Follette was set down as a yellow American when we entered the war against Germany. If he were yellow then he is equally so now unless like the chameleon he can change his color to suit his environment.

Spuds Morning in Duck

BOSTON, August 6.—Charles Ponzi, discharged as a federal prisoner from the Plymouth jail yesterday, spent the forenoon in the dock of the superior criminal court here instead of obtaining the freedom on bonds that he had expected. It was expected that Ponzi and Mrs. Ponzi had obtained surety for $4,000 that they believed would be acceptable to the district attorney. Ponzi's completion of the proceedings, however, the former financial wizard spent the humid day in the dock.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Nearly half a hundred Lowell young men, varying in ages from 17 to 22, are now engaged in diligently following the program prepared for them by the military executive experts supervising the activities of the citizens' military camp of 1924 at Ayer. The camp officially opened on Aug. 1 and terminates on the 31st day of the present month.

The aims of the army authorities and the young men numbering more than 8000, who are now wearing khaki uniforms on the training fields at Camp Devens are high; the quality of young American manhood whose names are on the encampment enrollment rolls, of the best.

Just what actually does the citizens' military training camp do for the average patriotic American youth, who today eagerly seeks to engage in slugging imitation war maneuvers and field sports on the historic military camp in Ayer? Let Colonel F. C. Bollen, U.S.A., commanding officer of the C.M.T.C. camp at Ayer last year, answer that query:

"I am of the opinion that he is benefited by such an attendance in the following respects: There is instilled in him a measure of self-discipline and respect of authority in its larger sense. I am assuming, of course, that no citizen is prepared to perform all his obligations as a citizen, unless he has a reasonable spirit of discipline and cooperation in all affairs in life."

"He will be instructed in citizenship by competent instructors and lectures by distinguished civilians. His physical condition will be improved by a series of systematic and progressive physical exercises, designed and supervised by the best physical instructors.

"He will be given a most careful physical examination at the expiration of the camp, at which time any physical defects would be noted and a report of same rendered to parents or relatives. In case remedial action is recommended, an outline of the same is furnished relatives."

"During the month at camp, the youth is surrounded by a moral environment of a high degree. His physical and sanitary surroundings are as perfect as careful preparation and supervision can insure. He will be involved in absolutely no financial obligation. His transportation to and from Camp Devens will, as well as his food, clothing, medical attention and housing, be borne by the United States government."

This is the inspiring program, all too briefly delineated, that 23 youths from this city are to follow until the 30th day of August. Quite an imposing program, and something well worth approval of all American citizens, is it not?

It is interesting indeed to sit down and chat with a man who has returned from abroad. It makes little difference in what country or countries most of his travel time was spent, for to those of us who confine our intimacy with European affairs to the daily news and picture postal cards considerate friends, what he has to recount is fascinating, instructive, and as we said before, interesting. We speak particularly now of Hou James E. O'Donnell, who gave us a few valued moments Tuesday morning, his first morning at his desk for six weeks. We interviewed him conversationally, without notes, and naturally one or two things slipped the mind when the story was being written an hour or so later. One point missed now comes to mind. It is that the heavy tax being imposed in England upon liquors and beer and an ordered reduction in alcoholic content together have placed the country almost in a state of prohibition. The luxury tax on beer is too heavy to allow drinking as a sport and the result is a marked falling off in consumption. Then, too, the reduction of the alcoholic content by order of the government, has taken out much of the "kick."

The joy a person finds in the rare beauty of full-blown flowers never is fully realized until some thoughtful friend sends a freshly picked bouquet to adorn one's desk or living room table. On several occasions we have had opportunity to express our thanks to Mr. Azro Dow, local druggist, for his kindness in placing such a bouquet for our personal enjoyment and again today it becomes our pleasure to reiterate our appreciation. On our desk there now stands an exquisite cluster of dainty colored gladioli, running in tints from a pure salmon pink to rich rose and royal purple. From sturdy stocks the flowers have opened to a beauty of purest ray serene and what is more, a multitude of buds, allows us to anticipate continued beauty as they unfold into full bloom. One does not necessarily have to know flowers intimately to enjoy them, their catalogued names mean nothing to most of us, but their beauty is one of the things that takes much of the commonplace out of work-a-day flowers and adds immeasurably in a fuller understanding of God's beauty in nature.

Between them and their next goal and along a route which parallels the Arctic circle, stretches 500 miles of bleak water, part of which is blocked by ice fields, conditions being the worst in years for this season. The Danish government steamer Gertrude Trask, entrusted with the task of delivering supplies for the airmen at Angmagssalik, their next scheduled stop, reported yesterday by wireless that she was frozen in and drifting with the ice, being unable to fulfill her mission.

Conditions were so bad, the message declared, that it might be several weeks before the vessel could free herself.

A Reykjavik dispatch last night said it was reported the Gertrude Trask had reached Angmagssalik, but this has not been confirmed.

Last advice from the aviators said Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the expedition, was in conference with Lieut. Eric Neison, the other remaining pilot and the convoying naval officers as to the next step.

The fliers may be faced with the alternatives of refueling near the edge of the ice field, landing in the open water near the Gertrude Trask or flying directly to Ilulissat, on the southwest coast of Greenland instead of attempting to stop at Angmagssalik.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Aug. 6.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson has returned from his exploration of central Australia, reporting that only a water supply is needed to make more than half of what is now barren country productive. Furthermore he believes that water can be found.

The explorer was impressed with the similarity of the pioneer life of central Australia with that of the United States and Canada 40 years ago.

A great many letters similar to the following recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a wonderful medicine for bringing the new mother back to normal health and strength.

It is an excellent restorative, contains no harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by a nursing mother.

"Thousands of mothers who have regained their strength by taking it are its best recommendation. Why not take it yourself?"

SON OF REAL DUKE WORKS AS SPARRING PARTNER

LONDON, Aug. 6.—There are no tin-eared pugilists in the training camp of Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, who is here to meet Jack Bloomfield August 9.

LEGENDRE'S GREAT JUMP A THRILLER

By N.E.A. Service

BOSTON, Aug. 6—Every season usually finds at least one outstanding performance in track and field competition. In 1923 it was Charles Brookins' sensational breaking of the 220-yard low hurdle record, a mark which had withstood the test of time for a quarter of a century.

This year, the honor goes to Robert Legendre, member of the Olympic team and former luminary at Georgetown university. Legendre earned his laurels in the running broad jump at the international games with a leap of 25 feet, 6 inches, a new world's record. The old mark, three inches, was held by Ned Gourdin, Harvard brilliant.

Legendre's record was a surprise. It exceeded anything that he had ever done before by almost a foot. It was the most sensational performance turned in by any American athlete abroad.

Moreover, it cast Do Hart Hubbard of Michigan out of the picture. Hubbard had been picked as the one most likely to smash Gourdin's mark. Several times Hubbard had gone beyond the 26-foot mark; once he hit 26 feet, 2 inches, a new record. But he was disallowed because he overstepped the takeoff.

Buster Smith will work the plate in tonight's game, and Orrin Allen will take care of the bags. With all right, they will change positions and so on during the remainder of the schedule.

NEW COACH FOR

INDIANA TEAM

Billy Evans Says

What is the matter with the pitchers?

Major league managers are agreed that the pitching end of the game is at low ebb.

The poorest pitching for 10 years is the consensus of the big league leaders.

There must be a reason, perhaps more of them, for this condition.

Pitchers will tell you that with the introduction of the lively ball is the big reason for the present lack of effectiveness.

With the coming of the lively ball, pitchers insist a new style game was developed, the perfect game, the game of play for a run, the style of game that calls for strategy, major league methods shifted to the getting runs in clusters, through the medium of slugging.

A majority of the pitchers blame the lively ball for the decided superiority of the batter that now prevails.

Recently the Cleveland Indians played a series in Boston. In every game both clubs had from two to six pitchers in action. In one of the games Cleveland made a dozen runs.

Making the jump went with the Cleveland club. I bumped into Manager Tris Speaker at the Boston station. He was pacing up and down the platform, a man much worried, spying me nearby, he walked over and said, "First words were,

"Did you ever hear of pitching in all your life?" I agreed with him that it was pretty tough.

"Never in all my career in the American league has it been worse," continued Speaker.

"It's not so much that the pitchers lack stuff, it's control."

"I don't believe my club has been in a game for a month in which pitchers haven't had three balls, and two strikes on at least 20 batters."

It is Speaker's opinion that lack of control is the real cause of the ineffectiveness of the pitchers. The batters are waiting out the twisters and hitting the critters.

I am inclined to agree with Speaker's viewpoint. Never have I seen so much wildness on the part of the pitcher.

Every pitcher wants to make the batters hit him, but after failure to get the pitcher in a hole, and when he is forced to get the ball over, the batter takes advantage of the soft offering.

The pitchers come right back by saying they would never get the side out if they kept putting the ball over. They got into the hole, but their argument that the lively ball is the cause of their trouble. They insist they cannot afford to cut the plate.

Municipal Council Looks Askance at $75,000 Loan

cases, tabled until the next regular meeting. No mention was made of the weeks-old nomination of Charles J. Launders to succeed Fisher If. Pearson, holdover member of the board of health. The resignation of Dr. Joseph E. Lamoureux from the high school building commission was referred to the committee on public properties with instructions to ask the resigning member to reconsider.

Supplulos greeted the introduction of the order to appropriate $75,000 for the new water main to the Oaklands. The order, drawn by the city solicitor, carried with it his approval as to form, as well as a letter of endorsement from the mayor. The preamble to the order contained an emergency clause which would permit omission of the usual form of advertising the order and allow for preliminary work to commence immediately on passage.

Upon the reading of the order Councillors Cosgrove and Genest favored reference to the finance committee because of the expenditure involved, which it was provided would be obtained through a 5-year bond issue. Councillors Fitzgerald and Sadler spoke for immediate passage on the ground that the job would provide work for unemployed. Mr. Cosgrove called attention to the Oaklands sewer job, $50,000 for which was secured under a similar "emergency" claim, and the votes of councilors were influenced by the statement that 200 men would be given employment. Mr. Cosgrove said he has visited this job a number of times and has never seen more than a dozen men at work there.

Motion Defeated

Mr. Genest asked for a vote on his move to refer to the finance committee and six voted against. For reference to committee: Chadwick, Chretien, McPaden, Genest, Gallagher, Dickson, Agarist, committee reference: Sadler, Morlary, Stearns, Hennessy, Cosgrove, Fitzgerald. Absent, therefore not voting, were Messrs. Daly, Lambert and McPaden.

The immediate passage as an emergency order was then brought to a vote. The same deadlock of six votes each stood. Each side was quick to seize upon the situation and in the avalanche of motions that followed all were marked by failure to pass. Once it was close, seven votes being held enough to break the tie but not a council majority.

Mr. Genest suggested that inasmuch as the motion to pass had failed the council would do well to send the matter to the finance committee, Councillors Morlary, Fitzgerald and Sadler disapproved.

A motion to adjourn until Friday was declared sustained by voice vote. Doubtless by Mr. Sadler, a standing count showed Morlary, Sadler, Fitzgerald and Genest against such a move and with but seven in favor, one vote was lacking to pass. Mr. Stearns then moved to vote special meeting for Friday night. The filibusters stood pat and that failed to take.

Mr. Fitzgerald moved for the adoption of the order. The chair ruled him out of order on the ground that the preamble, making the order an emergency order, had not been found acceptable. Mr. Dickson said he failed to see the reason for the sudden haste.

"If the councillor lived in my district he could see it," said Mr. Fitzgerald.

The Oakland sewer question bobbed up again and Mr. McPaden moved that the board of public service be requested to furnish the council with a statement of progress on that job, a statement of expenditure for labor and materials thus far and definite information as to whether any job-seekers would ever benefit by this "emergency" improvement.

Capt. Reynolds, the assistant superintendent of the water department is here and I would suggest that the council hear from him," said Mr. Sadler.

"Before we get away from that $60,000 Oakland sewer order," interrupted Mr. Dickson, "I want to say that I voted for it because I was impressed with the 'emergency' clause and the statements that work would be provided for a few hundred men. I wouldn't vote for it today with what knowledge I now have. I am not prepared to vote on this second 'emergency' order for the Oaklands until I am better satisfied about the first and know much more than I do now about this one. Let me say frankly I am skeptical as to the sincerity of the emergency clause in this order."

Mr. Fitzgerald moved for the acceptance of the emergency clause and Mr. Cosgrove seconded. Messrs. Dickson, Gallagher, Genest and McPaden were against passage and the administration forces could muster but six, Cosgrove, Fitzgerald, Hennessy, Stearns, Sadler and Morlary. Lacking a majority it failed to pass.

Condition of Present Bridge

We find that the bridge floor on the street car area is in a positively dangerous condition. The concrete of the floor is poor and has been worn so thin that a wheel of an automobile or wagon is likely to break through at any time. What would be even more serious is that due to deep ruts, at the tracks, a driver might lose control of a truck, run into one of the truss members, causing a complete destruction of a span. We believe that the present concrete floor on the street car half of the bridge should be replaced without undue delay and while the floor on the other half is apparently standing the traffic, that it would be advisable at the same time to replace this portion also.

Plans and Estimates

Using the present trusses, with some adjustments, repairs could be made to the bridge by removing the present concrete roadway deck; adding steel shelf angles on the steel stringers to support new timber ties; constructing a new recessed yellow pine wood floor consisting of solid decking laid on timber ties, the latter supported by the stringer shelf angles; waterproofing the deck; laying new wood block paving, and new curbs; raising of street grade at both ends to correspond to new elevation of bridge floor; cleaning and painting of existing steel work.

The estimated cost of the above work including engineering is $4,000.

In this estimate no allowance is made for laying new rails, nor salvaging old rails.

These repairs could be made and traffic maintained over the bridge at the same time. Estimated length of time for these repairs is four months.

New Bridge

After weighing traffic conditions, should it be considered advisable to build a new bridge at this site, your committee submits the following:

Type A—Steel Girder

Superstructure—Six equal spans at 80 feet apiece; steel girders encased with concrete; concrete deck, bituminous pavement; concrete balustrades; metal lamp posts; width of roadway 45 feet; total width center to center balustrades, 65 feet.

Foundations: Existing piers and abutments to be lengthened and three new piers to be constructed. River bed to be dredged to compensate for reduction of waterway by new piers.

Total estimated cost for removal of old structure and new construction, including engineering, $42,000.

Cost of temporary bridge, length 600 feet, width 30 feet, including oral, neering, $4,000.

Total cost of new bridge and temporary bridge, $45,000.

The above estimate does not include cost of new street car rails and trolley Amory street and the Merrimack river.

Length of time of construction, 8 months.

This type of bridge seems best adapted for a new bridge at this site.

Type B—Reinforced Concrete Bridge

Superstructure—Six equal spans at approximately 80 feet; reinforced concrete arch ring; concrete deck; concrete balustrades; metal lamp posts; bituminous pavement; width of roadway, 45 feet; total width of bridge, center to center balustrades, 65 feet.

Foundations: Two existing piers and abutments to be lengthened and reinforced and three new piers to be constructed. River bed to be dredged to compensate for reduction of waterway by new piers and for increase in size of existing piers.

Total cost of new bridge and temporary bridge, $45,000.

The above estimate does not include cost of new street car rails and trolley Amory street and the Merrimack river.

Length of time of construction—1 year.

The prop of the Locks and Canals would not oppose additional piers as proposed, provided compensation for reduction in area is made, by dredging the bottom of the river and for which allowance is made in each estuary.

To conform to this new bridge width, the southerly approach would have to be widened on the easterly or Massachusetts mill side, allowing for dredging through the present mill buildings. This estimate, which covers all the work that would make a job satisfactory to the Massachusetts mills and which would be spent under the direction of the city, is $200,000 additional to the bridge estimates.

We would recommend that the city solicitor be requested to ascertain the original street lines be-

I., where the specially constructed mooring mast aboard the mother ship Patoka, was to be tried out, was postponed early today because of the weather forecast predicting thunderstorms for today in the New Jersey region.

The giant dirigible will remain in its hangar today, officials at the air field said, but weather conditions permitting, the proposed flight and mooring test will be carried out Thursday.

Disastrous Floods in South India—50,000 Persons Are Homeless

MADRAS, British India, Aug. 6.—The floods in Southern India which, according to previous despatches submerged half of the state of Cochin, caused at least 100 deaths at Malabar, according to official reports. The loss of life elsewhere was comparatively small.

It is estimated that 50,000 persons are homeless while thousands of acres of crops have been ruined.

COMMISSION APPROVES WEEKLY PAYROLLS

The city auditor today forwarded to the city treasurer a warrant for $416.66, payable to Superintendent of Schools Hugh J. Molloy as July salary, computed on the basis of $8000 per annum.

The voucher accompanying the roll and signed by four members of the school committee is in the sum of $417.66, computed on a $6000 per year basis.

In view of the refusal of the mayor to approve the recently voted pay increase and taking further into consideration the likelihood of reconsideration of the raise vote at the next school board meeting, the budget and auditing commission and the auditor and mayor approved for the old sum.

In brief session this forenoon the budget and auditing commission approved weekly payrolls amounting to $48,408.25. The weekly payroll of the treasury department, $1,277.80 shows a decrease of $51 from last week's total of $1,282.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Prevailing high levels for Liberty bonds, now selling around the highest prices of the year, are expected to cause an indefinite suspension of the treasury's sinking fund operations. Although required to keep the average cost of sinking fund purchases down to par and accrued interest the government could pay as much as 10c for Liberty bonds in view of the large blocks acquired in previous years below par.

Sales of S. S. Kress and Company, in July were $6,370,586, as compared with $5,740,442 in the same month last year. For the first seven months of this year the sales were $45,726,512 as against $41,357,595 in the same period of 1923.

ANNOUNCES GENERAL WAGE REDUCTION

SOUTH HANOVER, Mass., Aug. 6.—Announcement was made today by the Joseph F. Corcoran Shoe company of a general wage reduction affecting all departments of their factory. The percentage varies on the various operations.

The firm issued a statement to its employees stating that it was obliged to slash wages or go out of business. As a result of the cut, a number of employees, including several masters, quit. Their places were rapidly filled.

The plant is a non-union factory. The firm operates a factory in Brockton under the B. and S.W.U. stamp contract.

BOSTON MEN HELD FOR FEDERAL COURT

Dave Durban and Salvatore Stoppa, both of Boston, waived examination today when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Richard B. Walsh on a charge of illegal transportation of alcohol and were held in bonds of $500 each for the federal court.

Durban and Stoppa were arrested yesterday by Federal Agents Sullivan and Cawle and Patrolman Frank Cote of Methuen when driving a truck through Methuen, bound from Boston to Dover, N. H. On the truck were found 250 gallons of grain alcohol. The men were committed to the Lowell police station last night when they could not furnish bail, but were released under bonds today when proper surety appeared.

Dr. L. S. Rowe, Director of Pan-American Union Speaks at Williamstown

WILLIAMSTOWN, Aug. 6.—Unless the security of the Panama canal and its approaches should be menaced the United States should not interfere in the domestic affairs of Central American republics, said Dr. L. S. Rowe, director of the Pan-American Union, in an address at the Institute of Politics today. He said that this country had a special interest in all matters affecting the order or stability of all Pan-American, but that this must not be the excuse for interference.

Prof. Sydney B. Fay of Smith college, conducting a round table on the World war, said that newly published documents from Berlin and Vienna archives made it necessary to revise previous ideas. The belief that Germany had plotted a war, he asserted was a myth, because the Kaiser was not fully informed of Austria's intentions after the assassination at Sarajevo and did not realize what the Austrian policy was leading.

At a round table on the financial rehabilitation of Europe Prof. Allyn A. Young of Harvard stressed the importance of the stabilization of currencies as the basis of financial improvement abroad.

SUGAR PRODUCERS ASK COOLIDGE FOR HEARING

WASHINGTON, August 6.—Porter J. McCumber, former senator from North Dakota, asked President Coolidge to stay to entertain a hearing from the sugar producers of the nation before taking final action on the tariff commission report on the sugar duties. As a representative of the producers, McCumber said he would oppose any bill in the tariff.

Owen J. Roberts, one of the government counsels prosecuting the naval oil reserve tax cases, also called at the White House. He represented the government was ready to proceed in the fall with prosecution of two civil suits and the criminal case involving former Secretary Fall and Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair.

SEEKS TO RECOVER FOR ALLEGED INJURIES

MARY McChesney, a former employ of the high school lunch room, has brought actions of tort, each in the sum of $3000, against Henry H. Harris, headmaster of the school, and Miss Susan G. Driscoll, head of the home economics department, seeking to recover for alleged injuries sustained in a fall on the lunch room floor. Mr. Harris declines to discuss the case except to admit that he has been served a summons.

FOR GUARDIAN FOR LIDA SHAW KING

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 6.—A petition asking a guardian for the person of Lida Shaw King, for many years dean of the woman's college of Brown university, was filed in the municipal court today by counsel for Grace K. Earle of Cambridge, Mass.

The petition asks that a local trust company or some suitable person be appointed, setting forth that Miss King is at a hospital under treatment, is of unsound mind and in danger of disposing of her property. A hearing will be held Sept. 16.

SWEEPING DENIAL IS MADE BY FALCON

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—William J. Fallon, taking the stand in his own defense at his trial in the federal court today made a sweeping denial of the government's charges that he bribed a juror in the Durrell-Gregory stock swindling case two years ago.

The defendant declared he did not meet Charles W. Rendigs, the juror whom he was alleged to have bribed until after the Durrell-Gregory case was concluded. He said he never had any talk with him or about him.

In the government's contention that by bribes Rendigs was influenced to stand out for an acquittal in the stock swindling case,

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Realizing sales continue to place a strain upon the stock market, the day opening, U. S. Steel common and several of the independent steels moved fractionally lower, while various railroad shares yielded further to profit-taking. Consolidated, unquoted, independent strength, 23 1/2 points, Standard Oil 2 1/2 points in reflection of the omission of the dividend.

With the initial batch of selling orders absorbed, the way was opened for recovery in certain sections of the list. General Electric rebounded 2 1/2 points, American Tobacco, Philip Morris and Rutherford Corp. 1 1/2 points. Can. Timken Roller Bearing and Black Truck moved up a point or so, the latter reaching a new 1924 high price.

Rumors linking Pittsburgh and West Virginia with the Van Sweringen merger plan sent this stock up 1 1/2 points with "nickel" added.

Advancing about a point, along with New York Central and Norfolk and Western, Atlantic Refining encountered renewed selling pressure, falling back almost 3 points. Foreign exchanges opened higher.

Prices increased as trading progressed with a good demand developing for the rail, leather and public utility issues, several of which established new high prices for the year.

Although Atlantic Refining extended its loss to more than four points on unfavorable dividend rumors, the Pan-American issues, Standard Oil of California and Producers and Refiners moved up a point or so under steady accumulation. U. S. Industrial Alcohol advanced more than a point on announcement of higher alcohol prices. Chain Store issues rose in reflection of the favorable July earnings reports now being published. Delaware and Hudson, Western Consolidated Gas and Detroit Edison, and Central Leather Corp. were added to the list of the new 1924 highs. Fisher Body broke 17 points and Pressed Steel Car preferred yielded two points to 68, a new low. Call money opened at 2 percent.

Considerable irregularity developed in the early afternoon, when weakness cropped out in a number of specialties. National Enameling common and preferred, Manhattan Electric Supply and American Bank Note, breaking 2 to 5 points. Bullish demonstrations continued in the rails, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, common and preferred extending their gains to 61 1/2 and 102, respectively, and Lackawanna to 134, all at new 1924 highs.

The closing was irregular. Mixed price movements continued throughout the late trading, strength of American Radiator, American Foreign Power certificates and National Lead up 4 to 6 points, being counteracted by the heaviness of the independent steels and a number of industrial specialties.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 15

The Eskimo youngster shouted something and the sled dogs started to run. Flip ran alongside of the sled, barking. There were no lines for Jack to hold with which to direct the Eskimo dogs so he just held on to the side of the sled. Slowly the sled began to pull away from the sailors.

Although the sailors had been running and sliding along in order to keep up with Jack, the dogs were able to travel too fast for them. Jack looked back and waved. "Come on," he shouted. And the sailors shouted for him to stop the dogs. Jack shouted "stop" but the dogs kept on going.

In the meantime the Eskimo father had told one of the sailors where to go for real ice fishing. So this sailor shouted to Jack, "when you come to the three little Eskimo huts, stop the dogs or else fall off the sled." Jack laughed and shouted back that he would do that. (Continued.)

"THEN FORWARD—MARCH!" SAID WEENY

"The first people I am going to visit on my vacation," said Weeny, "the elephant, to the Twins, 'are Mister and Mrs. Lion. I knew them in the circus.'

"All right," said Nancy and Nick happily. "We're all ready."

"Have you got my matchet?" asked Weeny. "I can't go visiting without my mighty and my toothbrush and my specks."

"We have them all right," said Nick.

"Then forward—march!" said Weeny, and away he went with his four big paddy feet and switching his little tail behind him.

"Hooyah!" cried Nick.

"Hurrah!" cried Nancy.

They were as happy as the king and queen of Timbuctoo.

Pretty soon they came to the rock house of the lion family. Mister and Mrs. Lion and their sons Cubby, Tubby and Bubby.

And the lions were just sitting down to lunch.

"How do you do," said Mister Lion.

"You're just in time. We have crocodile wings and guinea pig tails."

"I must have his joke," said Mrs. Lion apologetically. "Don't pay any attention to him. Boys, behave your manners and get up and set some chairs for the company."

So Cubby and, Tubby and Bubby jumped up and unbuttoned their napkins from underneath their chins and sat three extra chairs at the table.

"Do sit down," begged Mrs. Lion.

Nancy and Nick had no trouble at all, but Weeny felt most awkward.

But at last he got himself fixed and everybody began to pass things this way and that, until it looked like a game of "Button—button—who's got

THE OLD HOME TOWN

DRAMATIC STAR DRIFTS
INTO SLAPSTICK FIELD

BY A. H. FREDERICK
N.E.A. Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 6.—It used to be that when the comedy division is why we are finding excellent material in dramatic actors."

F. Richard Jones, supervising director and Sennett, has outlined a very definite schedule of production values for his comedians, varying in degree from slapstick to the borderland of drama.

Four distinct units are working each with a separate and definite field.

First of these is the Ralph Graves unit, designed to produce "straight" comedies, with a slight love theme interlaced. To the Graves unit have been assigned the Sennett Bathing Girls.

Second is the Ben Turpin unit, with the cross-eyed one programmed to make burlesque and satire—first of these, recently finished, being "Three Foolish Wicks," and with "The Virginian" being considered as the next object for Turpin's levity.

The Sennett "All Star" group will continue much as formerly, with slapstick.

Harry Langdon, former vaudeville star, heads the fourth unit, which will produce the "situation" humor of the lot. These comedies will contain pathos and "straight" intermingled with slapstick, slower moving than the Lloyd productions, and comparable in tempo to those in which Mabel Normand starred prior to her eclipse—temporary or permanent, announcement not yet ready to be made.

LOTS OF ICE CREAM

Ice cream that is made of the pure ingredients should be served frequently during the summer, as it is a nourishing food as well as a dessert. A glass of ice cream has a caloric value equivalent to three eggs or a third of a pound of beefsteak.

Plums for canning should be sweet, juicy and unbruised. They should not be too ripe.

BISHOP MAHONEY FLAYS KLAN AT
K. OF C. CONVENTION

Scores Recent Conventions of Great Political Parties
For "Making Concessions to Cowardice"—Says
Catholics Left No Doubt of Sincerity During War

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The recent conventions of the great political parties were criticised for "making concessions to cowardice" by Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Mahoney, bishop of Sioux Falls, S. D. In an address before the national convention of the Knights of Columbus today, the gathering which should have crystallized the sons of America "made a concession to cowardice," he said, "because of the fear that the question for votes might suffer by an expression of opinion on the movement abroad that would eliminate Catholics from the privileges of citizenship and the emoluments of public life."

Bands of men who "at the foot of a flaming cross are gambling away the seamless garment of our national happiness" were bitterly denounced.

"In this land of the free and the home of the brave," he continued, "we are confronted with the spectacle of men who would make war on others with the stealth of a guilty conscience and a courage of the underworld."

"For the time being it would seem that with many the birthright of American honor and fair play has been bartered away for some mess of potage and that the freedom which is our proudest boast and our most glorious heritage was in danger of being swallowed up in fanaticism and uninjustifiable discrimination. Through indifference, or curiosity or self-interest, the great mass of the people look on."

Catholics have left no doubt of their sincerity and good will, he said, and during the war won admiration and affection of a nation by the perfection of their organization and the Christian character of their help.

"With that there was no distinction of Jew or Gentile," he asserted, "but their aid went out to the man in khaki without regard to creed or race or color."

770,324 Members

The membership of the Knights of Columbus June 30, 1924, was 770,324. Supreme Knight Wm. J. McGinley reported to the convention today. New York leads in membership with 119,635; Illinois is next with 77,000, and Massachusetts has an approximate 70,000. There are now 2399 councils, a net increase of 68 over last year.

KLAN CANDIDATES LEAD
IN OKLAHOMA
INVESTIGATING KILLING OF MRS. EVANS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Representative E. B. Howard, klan favored candidate, held a slight lead over J. C. Walton, ousted governor and bitter klan opponent, in the race for the democratic nomination for the United States senate, in returns from yesterday's primary received today.

Unofficial returns from 1137 of the 2926 precincts in the state gave Howard 37,482 and Walton 35,814. The other three candidates apparently are out of the running.

In the republican senatorial contest W. B. Pine, klan-endorsed candidate, had a lead of nearly $600 over his nearest opponent, Eugene Lorton, Tulsa publisher and adversary of the klan, when the returns from 456 precincts were tabulated.

JAPANESE DESTROYER
DASHED AGAINST ROCKS

TOKIO, Aug. 6.—Japanese destroyer No. 4, while engaged with three other war crafts in maneuvers, was caught in a storm and driven against the rocks at the entrance to Bembo harbor early today, according to a message received here from Kure.

A hole was torn in the hill of the destroyer and salvage boats were despatched to the scene. No loss of life was reported.

SEWING CLASS PICNIC

The South common sewing class held a picnic today on the banks of the Merrimack, just off the boulevard. The class, which consists of about twenty girls, ranging in age from nine to thirteen, left the square at 10 o'clock, under the supervision of Miss Turgeon, the sewing instructor. On arrival at the grounds the entire class went in for a dip. At noon a basket lunch was served and following it a series of games were played.
